Nat'l League Stars Win In Ninth, 7 To 4

Callison Homer Does It; Giants Play Key Roles

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Callison of the Philadelphia Phillies hit a three-run homer with two out in the ninth inning today and the National League squared the long All-Star series with the American League on a 7-4 victory.

Callison's homer over the right field wall came on the first pitch to him by Dick Radatz, the monster of the Boston Red Sox bullpen.

As a result of the come-from-behind triumph, the Nationals evened the series at 17-17-1. The Americans dominated the earlier years and held a 12-4 lead through 1949.

Going to the bottom of the ninth, Radatz had been in complete control of the Nationals, striking out four men in two perfect innings of relief work.

Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants worked the 6-foot-5 fast-baller for a walk and stole second. Orlando Cepeda, another Giant, who had gone hitless in 20 previous All-Star trips, blooped a single into short right.

When Joe Pepitone of the New York Yankees picked up the ball in short right and threw wildly to the plate, Mays scored the tying run. Pepitone's throw bounced high over Elston Howard's head for an error.

GETS BOYER

Radatz got Ken Boyer of St. Louis on an infield pop and then walked Johnny Edwards of Cincinnati intentionally. Once again the big boy bore down and poured a third strike past pinch hitter Hank Aaron of Milwaukee. Many in the crowd of 50,850 at Shea Stadium booed when Aaron was sent up to hit for Ron Hunt, the New York Mets' favorite.

Callison, who came into the game as a pinch hitter in the fifth, then slammed Radatz' first pitch over the right field wall into the orange seats in the lower stands.

WINNING PITCHER

Juan Marichal of the Giants, who retired the side in order in the top of the ninth inning, was the winning pitcher.

It was an exciting seesaw game, with the American opening up with a run in the first, only to have the National grab the lead in the fourth on home runs by Billy Williams of Chicago and Boyer off John Wyatt, the Kansas City relief specialist. The National widened the lead to 3-1 in the fifth on a single by Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh and a double by Dick Groat of the Cardinals.

Sausalito To Lease City Hall?

A San Rafael real estate man wants to move Sausalito's city offices out of the city hall and put the building up for lease.

The unusual proposal by Gabriel Lehrer of Fox and Carskadon, Inc., will be considered by the Sausalito City Council when it meets in the hall at 731 Bridgeway at 8 p.m. today.

Lehrer proposes city offices—except the police station and library—be moved to 3030 Bridgeway, where he would lease office space to the city. He would then put the city hall up for lease to a "commercial tax-paying enterprise."

The city hall, in a prime downtown location, looks like any store and office building, rather than a city hall. It is sandwiched between a coffee shop and a real estate office, and has no yard.

The library is upstairs—and the weight of its books threatens to collapse the ceiling of the city council chamber. Lehrer proposes the library be moved into part of the ground floor that would be vacated by city offices. The police station would stay where it is.

The location at 3030 Bridgeway would place the city offices next door to the Sausalito Chamber of Commerce.

Besides the proposal to move out of the city hall, the city council tonight will hold a hearing on United Sand and Gravel Co.'s appeal from planning commission denial of a use permit for sales of its products on A. G. Schoonmaker Co. property, hear an offer of the chamber of commerce for docking facilities on city-owned land at the end of El Portal, and get the city engineer's report on the Bridgeway sea wall, which may need replacement.

Hiring a parking attendant for parking lot No. 3 will also be discussed, along with a petition requesting a Sausalito Boulevard assessment district.

And last but not least, the council is slated to adopt the 1964-65 budget.

Rockefeller Tells GOP It Must Act On Rights

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller told the Republican platform committee today it must affirm the constitutionality of the recently passed Civil Rights Act.

The New York governor threw his influence strongly behind the drive by supporters of Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania to force a fight with the front-running Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona over the platform.

Rockefeller declared: "We must not permit the Republican Party to be transformed into a narrow, doctrinaire instrument of extremism."

He said the party cannot win the presidency unless it picks up votes outside its own ranks and, "certainly it cannot expect to win if it seeks to serve the narrow interests of a minority within a minority."

He said he thinks the party can broaden its base and win in November, and he went on:

"It is unthinkable that the party of Lincoln should ever heed the counsels of those who would have the Republican Party play upon prejudice and fear, or narrow its base and mount a national campaign more concerned with future factional dominance of the party than future leadership of the nation."

On the civil rights issue, Rockefeller said the platform should express the party's pride in "the Republican majorities of more than 80 per cent in both houses of Congress which were decisive to enactment of a Civil Rights Act of 1964."

Goldwater voted against the bill, saying two important parts of it are unconstitutional.

Rockefeller's testimony cited position after position on domestic matters sharply contrasting with stands taken by Goldwater. Moreover, the governor threw in a number of phrases likely to irritate supporters of the conservative Arizona senator.

Rockefeller said the party platform must be one that "rejects the extremism of both the radical right and the radical left—a platform for the many, not for the few, a platform truly in the main stream of American political thought and action."

Tiburon Boy Held In Fatal Stabbing At Private School

A 17-year-old Tiburon boy was held for manslaughter investigation today in the fatal stabbing of a fellow student at a Santa Barbara County private school.

Santa Barbara County sheriff's deputies said Douglas Short has admitted stabbing John Eckert, 16, of Long Beach, but claimed it was in self-defense.

Both boys were students at the Devereux School, about 10 miles north of Santa Barbara. The school is for mentally disturbed, retarded and "problem" students.

Short, son of Mrs. Catherine Short, of 1860 Centro West, Tiburon, and of William Short, has been at the school about five years, sheriff's investigators reported.

Short was in his room at the school about 12:30 a.m. Sunday when five boys entered and began berating and hitting him, Sgt. William Olsen of the Santa Barbara sheriff's office reported.

Short previously had reported to supervisors that some of the boys were "picking on" others and the group had come to his room for revenge, deputies reported.

Short grabbed a fishing knife and stood off the group. Eckert then entered the room, attempted to disarm him, and was stabbed in the stomach by the four-inch blade, Olsen said. Eckert was dead on arrival at a hospital.

New Blaze Threatens Sierra Guard Station

BAKERSFIELD (UPI) — Nearly 600 firefighters battled a blaze today which had burned 1,000 acres of prime watershed in the rocky Kern Canyon area of Eequoia National Forest about 25 miles northeast of Bakersfield.

U.S. Forest Service officials said a Forest Service guard station was in the path of the fire. The station was unoccupied. Officials also said heavy timber on Breckenridge Mountain would be in danger if canyon winds came up later today as expected.

Airlines Ordered To Use Recorders

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cockpit voice recorders to take down all conversations must be installed by all large passenger planes as "a further step toward improving air safety," the Federal Aviation Agency ruled yesterday.

A spokesman pointed out that had such equipment been on a Pacific Air Lines plane which crashed May 7 near Danville, Calif., it might have led to a clear solution of the shooting aboard which preceded the crash.

However, the FAA pointed out the new regulation was proposed months before this crash.

Set Fires Peril Church, Homes, Railway Tunnel

Blame Placed On Youngsters, Firecrackers

A windswept fire that threatened homes in Marinwood, a grass fire near a big apartment on San Rafael's Canal Street, another grass fire on Los Ranchitos Road, and a fire that threatened the Corte Madera tunnel were all set by youths yesterday.

Flames came to within 25 feet of the north entrance of the Northwestern Pacific Railroad's Corte Madera tunnel after four boys playing with firecrackers set the blaze.

CULPRITS SEEN

The boys, seen running from the area soon after the fire began at 5 p.m., were not apprehended. The fire blackened almost an acre.

Firemen had a hard time reaching the area and had to detour over dirt roads to get hoses in the ranch and put crews on the line. The fire was in the area between Sonora Way and the tracks.

(On July 20, 1961, a little short of three years ago, fire destroyed the railroad's Puerto Suello tunnel in San Rafael. That also was set by boys.)

MORE FIRE CRACKERS

The Marinwood fire was set by two youths, both 16, also playing with fire crackers. They were apprehended and were to be questioned today by Juvenile Officer William Johansen of the sheriff's department.

The blaze started behind the Marinwood fire station and swept up the steep hill into bay and oak trees a 5:50 p.m. At 5:57 p.m. Chief Joseph D. Medley called for help from Marin County, Terra Linda and Hamilton Air Force Base fire departments.

The county sent three trucks, the air base sent one unit, and Terra Linda sent a fire crew. In addition, Medley called out 20 volunteers. There were also about 50 residents who joined the fight with hoes, shovels and wet sacks.

Pair Lost On Fishing Boat Trip

The body of a well-dressed, be-jeweled woman found in the ocean off Point Reyes Saturday may be that of a Southern California doctor's wife missing with her husband since their boat capsized June 27 off the Mendocino coast.

Coroner Frank J. Keaton today was checking for positive identification of the body as that of Mrs. Gerald Finkel of Baldwin Hills, Los Angeles County.

MISSING BOAT

Mrs. Finkel and her husband have been missing since they rented a 15-foot boat in Fort Bragg and disappeared.

Dr. Finkel had attended the national convention of the American Medical Assn. in San Francisco and then went north, Keaton said. He rented the boat at Fort Bragg for a fishing trip on the Noyo River.

The clothing and the physical description of Mrs. Finkel match those on the body found off the coast, Keaton said.

DEPUTY DISPATCHED

Keaton dispatched a deputy, Maury Marowitz, to Baldwin Hills with pictures of the victim, and her effects for possible identification by Mrs. Finkel's hairdresser, Margaret Jackson.

The lead is the strongest of 250 received by telephone since 5 p.m. yesterday and checked by Mrs. Frances Bahl, his deputy, Keaton said.

At first the Finkel disappearance was not regarded highly because of the distance from where the body was found, he said.

Sierra Crash Kills Marin Teen-Ager

Daniel Joseph Vacha, 17, of Sleepy Hollow, a June honor graduate of Sir Francis Drake High School was killed instantly Sunday night near Weaverville, Trinity County,, when the small foreign car he was driving overturned on Highway 299, pinning him underneath.

He was returning with his identical twin brother, Richard, to summer work for the United States Forestry Service.

The twins had spent the holiday weekend with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Vacha of 70 Crane Drive, Sleepy Hollow. The senior Vacha is a contractor.

The brothers, both honor students, athletes and service organization leaders — always in identical activities — were driving toward Hayfork, Trinity County, on Highway 299 when the car overturned on a curve.

Daniel was pinned underneath the driver's side door. Richard escaped with bruises. Both were wearing safety belts.

Audience Misses Out On Fairfax Discussion

The Fairfax City Council held a 15-minute meeting last night to accept a petition for annexation of 9.88 acres of uninhabited land, adjourned the meeting, then spent on hour discussing the annexation with its develpers.

The land is northwest of the Fairfax limits, between Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and Olema Road. Farr Associates of San Rafael petitioned for its annexation.

This was approved in routine fashion. It now must go to the Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission.

Mayor Cornelius van Vliet announced the meeting was adjourned. City Clerk Alice Leonesio and the half dozen residents in the audience at the meeting in the Fairfax Women's Club got up and left.

The city clerk's chair was immediately taken by Dan M. Miller, planning commission chairman. Matthew Farr, head of Farr Associates, and his brother, Faradj Gilan-Farr, designer and planner of the project for the 9.88 acres, approached the council table.

Farr said his organization plans cluster apartments on the land, with 1,900 square feet of land area for each unit. He said the project will cost $2,808,000. He asked the land be zoned for apartments on its annexation to the city.

Miller said Fairfax is "oversaturated" with apartments. He said he did not wish to see Drake Boulevard lined with them.

Gilan-Farr gave a lengthy presentation of the plan. He said the development would include a supervised day nursery and playground for pre-school children.

Councilman Robert R. Sousa called the day nursery a good idea for families with both husband and wife working.

Councilmen expressed concern, however, about the high vacancy factor in apartments in Marin County, and doubts whether more are needed in Fairfax.

The actual meeting ended at 8:45 p.m. The six residents who appeared an hour earlier because they wanted to keep track of what their city government is doing had missed all but the first 15 minutes.

A reporter, fortunately, stayed.

Fingerprints Lack Revealed In Murder Trial Testimony

By ROSS DAVIS

A thorough but apparently frustrating attempt by law enforcement officers to lift fingerprints of suspects in the Sausalito murder apartment of Donald G. Corbett Jr. was revealed in testimony today in Marin Superior Court.

Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales told newsmen he hopes to prove that Robert Lee Jones and John Lee King wore gloves during the March 27 burglary and icepick killing of Corbett and/or wiped clean all fingerprints that might have established their identity.

Two pairs of gloves, found by Sausalito officers in the trunk of a Pontiac driven by Jones have been offered for identification in the murder trial.

Edward F. Klementovich, assistant supervisor of the Marin County sheriff's office's identification bureau, testified today he and Lt. David Franklin Cooper of Sausalito police went over the apartment's interior carefully, dusting for prints. He said various prints were found on liquor bottles and a lime juice bottle and a table lamp.

Klementovich also testified he found no prints on bathroom faucets, which he said should also have contained at least a few prints.

More testimony by Klementovich and showing of color picture slides taken of the apartment's interior following the murder were scheduled this afternoon.

A motion for mistrial, on grounds that recent publicity of finding of a sculptured head of newspapers in Jones' cell would prejudice the jury, was denied

Civil Rights Team Will Huddle With Dixie Governors

White House Sends Three Ex-Governors For Task

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration is sending a team of former Southern governors into the South today to talk with state leaders about compliance with the new civil rights law.

Heading the three-member delegation is former Florida Gov. LeRoy Collins, chief of the Community Relations Service which was established by the bill to help areas voluntarily comply with the law.

Collins is being accompanied by Commerce Secretary Luther H. Hodges, former Governor of North Carolina, and Buford Ellington, former Governor of Tennessee.

The group planned to depart following Senate Commerce Committee hearings on Collins' nomination as director of the Community Relations Service. He has been president of the National Association of Broadcasters.

Collins is scheduled to meet today with Virginia Gov. Albertis S. Harrison and North Carolina Gov. Terry Sanford to discuss implications of the law.

While no schedule has been announced for the group, they were expected to hold the private talks with southern governors this week and then meet with other governors in the near future.

During the discussions, Collins and his assistants plan to outline how the Community Relations Service will work in trying to aid each state settle disputes expected to arise from the new law.

Harrison, an outspoken opponent of the law, said when President Lyndon B. Johnson signed the measure, that it was "a grave error." He added, however, that he hoped the legislation would "usher in an era of restraint and responsibility by those whom the advocates of this bill seek to help."

Alabama Gov. George Wallace, a staunch segregationist, said he would welcome the delegation to his state, but has rejected any invitation to discuss potential federal efforts to help local communities comply with the law.

Gov. Donald Russell of South Carolina said he had "made no appointments to talk with anyone about the bill," despite a telegrammed invitation from Collins asking for an off-the-record meeting.

Integration Leaders Map Civil Rights Test

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Negroes ran into scattered pockets of resistance in testing the new Civil Rights Act Monday and integration leaders mapped plans for intestified campaigns, especially in Alabama.

The Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. announced in Birmingham that his staff members would go to Tuscaloosa and Selma, Ala., to begin assessing the situation in these cities. He said his Southern Christian Leadership Conference would concentrate its efforts in Alabama this summer.

Meeting with King's group to "re-evaluate summer plans in light of what has happened in response to the civil rights bill" were members of the Congress of Racial Equality and the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee.

At Selma, one of the leaders of King's group, the Rev. Ralph Abernathy, made a strong appeal for nonviolence at a Negro mass meeting. He said the SCLC would support a Selma drive to test the federal law but, "we will not be part of any violent campaign."

Earlier, 55 Negroes and six white men were jailed when civil rights forces launched a new voter registration drive.

The Negroes were arrested by Sheriff Jim Clark when they congregated across from the courthouse and began singing. They were charged under a city ordinance prohibiting demonstrating there while court was in session.

At Birmingham, U.S. Dist. Judge Clarence Allgood continued indefinitely a Negro request to prevent police from interfering with peaceful demonstrations at Tuscaloosa. Allgood said he hoped the testing of the civil rights law would be peaceable and orderly and without disturbances.

At Tuscaloosa, a majority of Tuscaloosa's motel and hotel operators issued a statement saying they would comply with the federal law.

Negroes integrated businesses and facilities in Fort Smith, Ark.; Charleston, Greenville and Myrtle Beach, S.C.; Memphis, Tenn.; Ocala, Plant, City, and Dunnellon, Fla.; and Meridian, Miss.

Negroes were turned away from one eating establishment in Ocala, but integrated four others.

Two drug store soda fountains closed in Hopewell, Va., and a hotel shut down in Jackson, Miss., rather than comply with the law.

Negroes were turned away for the second time by a white restaurant owner in Atlanta, and city-county swimming pools at Brunswick, Ga., were closed.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mrs. John F. Kennedy is leaving the capital — and its memories of great triumph and deep sadness — to live in New York, hoping the change will be beneficial to her and the children.

The widow of the assassinated president disclosed she plans to sell her two homes in the area and take up residence in New York in time to enter Caroline, 6, and John Jr., 3, in school this fall.

"While she will always maintain her close ties in Washington," said the statement issued through her office yesterday, "Mrs. Kennedy feels that the change of environment in New York, from Georgetown and its many memories, will be beneficial to her and the children."

Hat Pin Is Still The Best Weapon

NEW YORK (UPI)—A secretary who used a switchblade knife to protect herself from rape violated a 53-year-old New York state law which makes it a felony to carry a concealed weapon without a permit.

Miss Del Fava

Its intent is to keep dangerous weapons out of the hands of felons, but its strict enforcement occasionally puts a private citizen defending his life or property in jeopardy of imprisonment. Such is the case of Arlene Del Fava who used a switchblade knife to fend off a would be rapist near her Queens apartment Saturday night.

Technically speaking, Miss Del Fava couldn't have been in more clear cut violation of the law if she had been carrying a submachine gun in a violin case.

Rigorous application of the law — which in this case is highly unlikely — could send her to prison for 10 years for violating the law which also prohibits the sale or possession of handguns, blackjacks, brass knuckles, bombs and grenades.

From now on, she said, she'll stick to the "weapon" her grandmother carried — the hatpin.

French Avalanche Kills Climbers

CHAMONIX, France (UPI) — An avalanche today killed 14 persons on Mont Blanc, including former world slalom champion Charles Bozon of France.

Mountain rescue officials said the victims were swept 600 yards down Europe's highest mountain. Bozon and the group were climbing the Aiguille Verte (Green Peak) slope not far from the 15,777-foot summit of Mont Blanc.

Rescue workers said a huge wall of snow roared down the famous mountain, engulfing the 14 climbers who were roped together.

All 14 bodies were flown to Chamonix.

Bozon, 31, was 1962 world special slalom champion and a bronze medal winner at the 1960 Olympics at Squaw Valley.

Ike Talks Of King-Making, Vote On Rights

Magazine Reports General Is Miffed By Goldwater Tale

NEW YORK (UPI)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower recently complained to Sen. Barry Goldwater that Goldwater's aides had misrepresented the results of a meeting between Eisenhower and Goldwater at Gettysburg, the Saturday Review reported last night.

In an article titled "Visit to Gettysburg," written by Editor Norman Cousins, the magazine said Eisenhower "telephoned the Senator and protested what he felt was a misrepresentation."

CIVIL RIGHTS TALK

Eisenhower and Goldwater met shortly before Goldwater, leader in the fight for the Republican presidential nomination, voted against the civil rights bill in the Senate. The Senator had called on Eisenhower to explain his position on the bill.

Cousins said Eisenhower told Goldwater that if Eisenhower "had been a member of Congress, I would have voted for it."

Cousins said he had asked Eisenhower whether Goldwater's announcement of his vote against the civil rights bill, coinciding as it did with his visit to Gettysburgh, "created a misleading impression—as though there were some connection between the two events."

IKE'S ANSWER

"A pertinent question," Eisenhower was quoted.

"The last thing in the world I wanted to do in my retirement was to try to run a political organization or give orders or pull strings," Eisenhower was quoted. "Trying to dictate who the man should be who would offer himself to the voters for the most important job in this country is completely out of keeping with what I want to do—or, indeed, what I believe anyone has the right to do."

Cousins said Eisenhower told him he was "not a king maker" and one-man rule of anything was obnoxious to him.

Military Savings Cited By Pentagon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara reported to President Lyndon B. Johnson today that defense costs were cut by 2.5 billion dollars in the past year without any harm to America's military strength.

In a review of his stringent economy drive, McNamara said savings ran the gamut from halving the cost of servicemen's "dog tags" and cutting stocks of insect repellents, to closing military installations and reducing certain missile purchases.

Johnson, hailing the cost reduction program, said McNamara's report "gives me confidence that my pledge to get a dollar's worth of value from every dollar spent can be fulfilled."

The report was made public at the Defense department, together with Johnson's comment on it.

For the year that ended June 30, McNamara said, defense savings exceeded original forecasts by 1 billion dollars. And the Secretary set an enthusiastic new goal of saving at an annual rate of 4.6 billion dollars by mid-1967, an increase of 600 million dollars in his earlier target.

"I want to assure you," he told the President in a 10-page single-spaced report, "that these savings are being achieved without any adverse effect on our military strength and combat readiness."

In fact, McNamara said, there has been marked expansion of U. S. military power. He ticked off familiar increases in nuclear warheads, army divisions, jet fighter squadrons, air lift, ship construction and guerrilla warfare forces.

The effect of savings achieved through cost reduction and better operating efficiency was not to lower the over-all defense spending budget of 51 billion dollars but rather to prevent it from going higher.

CLEANUP BIDS SET ON CITY HALL SITE

San Rafael Council Also Adopts Preliminary Budget; No Tax Cut

Bids on demolition of five buildings on property where San Rafael's new city hall is to be located were called last night for opening on July 20.

The houses to be demolished are on property purchased from three owners on the block between C and E streets and between Fifth and Mission avenues. Not included in the demolition will be row houses fronting on Fifth Avenue at C Street and a house fronting on C Street. That portion of the property will be held for future location of a new main fire station.

The San Rafael City Council authorized the bid call last night on presentation of specifications by Public Works Director Norris M. Rawles, who had been directed to prepare them at a budget session last Tuesday.

The council also adopted the preliminary budget for fiscal 1964-65. City Clerk W. L. Morgan said it calls for expenditures of $3,759,626 and receipts of $3,243,056—thus dipping by more than half a million dollars into the city's reserve unless property and sales taxes exceed the estimates, and making a tax rate reduction appear unlikely.

The budget is still subject to change, however. The city council is to meet at 7:30 p.m. today with Joseph D. Rodota, parks and recreation director, to go over the budget of his department. At the same session, it is to discuss possible salary revisions. The preliminary budget includes an across-the-board cost-of-living salary increase of 2½ per cent.

The San Rafael City Council Also:

1. Directed City Atty. David Menary Jr. to proceed with condemnation of the 6,000-square foot Cofland property needed for extension of Bellam Boulevard, despite an offer of the owner to accept $22,000 out of court. The city's appraisal was $20,000. Councilman Fred E. Jensen commented, "I'd rather give the $2,000 to the jury." Said Councilman Charles W. Aby, "I would too." Said Mayor John F. McInnis, "This has all the earmarks of a club." Declared Councilman Louis H. Baar, "Even $20,000 is an outrageous price for this property."

2. Postponed to July 20 hearing on C. V. Whitlatch's appeal from planning commission rejection of his plans for a subdivision. The delay was asked by Harold F. Riede, attorney for Whitlatch.

3. Vacated a public utility easement in Rafael Racquet Club Estates, made unnecessary by resubdivision into larger lots.

4. Awarded contract for street striping to A and M Striping Co. of Petaluma, only bidder, and contracts to supply various road building materials to Basalt Rock Co., McPhail's, Hudson Co. and Shamrock Materials Co. Rawles said A and M Striping Co. had agreed to use a higher quality of street paint, suggested by councilmen, at no extra cost.

5. Referred to the traffic committee Harry Sabaca's complaint that his Chevron service station at Northgate is isolated by denial of access to Del Presidio Boulevard.

6. Received a report on alternates to the plan for double-decking parking lots at Third Street and Lootens Place and Fifth Avenue and C Street. This showed waterproofing treatment would add $22,600 to the cost; planter tubs and sprinklers, $800; stairwell enclosure at Fifth and C, $1,200, and metal fencing at Fifth and C, $3,600.

7. Directed new bids be called, for opening July 20, for restrooms and storage facilities at Victor Jones Park, because of a change in specifications.

8. Received for study a proposed television master antenna system licensing ordinance prepared by City Attorney Menary. The city attorney said it calls for a 10-year license period, with a flexible fee system.

9. Postponed to July 20 accepting as complete the first phase improvements of the Northgate Industrial Park Assessment District because Kenneth Jones, the district's attorney, was not present.

10. Set for hearing Aug. 17 a proposal to vacate public utility easements in one block of East San Rafael because of resubdivision.

11. Approved the final maps of Twelveoak Hill No. 3, a Lucas Valley subdivision, and of Glenwood Forest Unit 1.

12. Granted J. Tachouet an extension until Aug. 15 to remove the American French Laundry encroachment on property purchased for extension of Third Street east. Public Works Director Norris M. Rawles said this would not delay the street project, although "it will be pretty close."

13. In connection with placing utilities underground, approved a "pole riser agreement" with Pacific Gas and Electric Co., and set for Aug. 17 public hearing on creating an underground utility district bounded by Third and Fourth streets and by Lootens Place and Cijos Street.

14. Set for hearing July 20 Shell Oil Co.'s appeal from planning commission denial of access from Second Street for a service station at Second and Shaver streets.

15. By unanimous vote, enacted the ordinance calling for double-decking parking lots at Fifth and C and at Third and Lootens.

16. Designated Neil Brodsgar and Edward P. Morphy as appraisers to make appraisals of city property to be sold through the Marin County Real Etsate Board. The board will pay the appraisal fees.

17. Took no action on a request by the City of Sausalito that San Rafael join in a protest against the cycle system of reappraisal and urge passage of legislation to outlaw it. "I don't see where we ought to get in this battle," said Baar. Other councilmen agreed.

18. Directed City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen to obtain copies of a proposed change in the social security law before acting on a request by the county board of supervisors that the proposal be endorsed.

19. Put over until tonight's budget meeting a request by the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce that its $1,000 annual allocation be increased. (The city charter limits the amount to $1,000.)

20. Approved hiring of George H. Rodgers as planning director at $900 per month, effective Aug. 1; James M. Prudden Jr. as civil engineer at $525, and George E. McKissick Jr. as civil engineer at $593.

21. Approved paying Joanne Wing $2,562 for 732 square feet of property needed for extension of Third Street west, and paying Mrs. Josephine P. Dodson $1,000 for 837 square feet next to it—part of which is in Mahon Creek.

22. At urging of Councilman Harry A. Barbier, directed the building and engineering departments to inspect a bulkhead at a home being built at 41 Chula Vista Drive. Barbier and Jensen said the structure may pose a hazard to houses below.

EAST BAY CITY ELECTS FIRST NEGRO MAYOR

RICHMOND (AP) — George D. Carroll, who grew up in Brooklyn, N.Y., is the first Negro mayor of Richmond.

The 41-year-old attorney got the votes of the other eight city councilmen last night and received a standing ovation from the 250 persons present. He abstained from voting.

Carroll, the first and only Negro to serve on the council, was elected to a six-year term in 1961. Under Richmond's city manager form of government, Carroll will serve as mayor for one year. He can succeed himself.

"I view my election as another step in a new and unfolding drama in America where a man is judged on his work as an individual and not on the color of his skin," Carroll said.

Richmond has a population of nearly 80,000; about one-fourth are Negro.

Down On Beatles

JAKARTA, Indonesia (UPI)—President Sukarno put out a new order of the day for police yesterday: Ban Beatle haircuts. Sukarno paused in the midst of an economic address and said, "I order the police, if there is a youth with Beatle hair, they must be cut."

Senators Launch Inquiry On 'High Cost Of Dying' Claims

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate subcommittee opened hearings today into the "high cost of dying" and heard witnesses from the funeral industry tell of abuses in prices and selling, and unveil a proposal for correcting them.

Wilbur M. Krieger, managing director of the National Selected Morticians, Evanston, Ill., told the Senate subcommittee that his trade association had suggested 27 rules to the Federal Trade Commission "for the elimination of abuses in the funeral field."

He said some of the criticisms and charges against the funeral industry — which he noted had triggered such headlines as "Death Cost Too High" and "The Undertakers' Racket"—are justified.

"But," he added in his statement, "there are many criticisms which are based only on isolated instances of abuse an misrepresentations of fact."

The rules, he said, would strike such practices as:

"Stating that the law requires a deceased to be embalmed when such is not the fact.

"Stating that the law requires the use of a burial vault when such is not the fact."

Paying secret kickbacks to hospital and coroner employes for steering " a prospective customer" to a mortician.

Saying that a complete funeral costs $750, for instance, when there are additional charges.

The hearings by the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee, under Chairman Philip A. Hart (D-Mich.) are aimed at uncovering any possible restraint of trade and antitrust aspects in the burial industry.

A Musical Marriage Has Struck Discord

The marriage of concert violinist Jacob Krachmalnick and soprano Corrine Swall of Kentfield has struck a discord.

Mrs. Krachmalnick filed for divorce in Marin Superior Court yesterday, charging the internationally known violinist with extreme cruelty.

Krachmalnick, recently named concertmaster of the San Francisco Symphone Orchestra, and his wife have been married 10 years. They met while he was concertmaster of the Philadelphia Orchestra and she was a student at the Julliard School of Music in Naw York. They were married in Kentfield.

Before settling in Marin County, the Krachmalnicks lived in Philadelphia and in Holland, where he served as concert master of the Concertgebouw Orchestra.

The Krachmalnicks, who lived at 80 Black Log Road, separated last month.

Mrs. Krachmalnick asked for custody of their five-year-old daughter, Janice, an unspecified amount of alimony and child support, and a division of community property.

wind," Medley said. "At one point, I thought the (Episcopal) Church of Nativity was going to go."

The fire went around the new church, however, and stopped at the ridge when the wind shifted, he said.

The Marinwood fire was not out until 11:50 p.m.

In San Rafael, two boys, 10 and 7, playing with a smoke bomb, started a small grass fire behind the apartment at 129 Canal Street. The boys tried to put the fire out with a door mat, but it only added fuel to the blaze.

Six youths were seen running from a fire on Los Ranchitos Road across from Guide Dogs for the Blind school. The fire burned 10-by-70 feet of grass. San Rafael police were investigating today.

Meanwhile, Johansen said he expects a solution soon in the investigation of two 25-acre grass fires last Thursday, one in Woodacre and one west of Fairfax. Both were set and the sheriff's department has been working doggedly to follow up several clues.

Hayfork. Daniel was to take the family car to McCloud, Siskiyou County, where he stayed.

The brothers were recipients of state scholarships, and both were life members of the California Scholastic Federation and Drake Honor Crew, a scolastic service organization.

In separate semesters, Daniel was president of both organizations. He was also a member of school swimming, basketball and track teams. He was an "A" student.

The youth was a native of Marin County. He is survived by his parents; two brothers, Richard W. and Robert D. Vacha, and a grandmother, Mrs. Bertha Vacha of Albany.

Requiem Mass will be celebrated tomorrow at St. Rita's Church in Fairfax at 9:30 a.m., with the funeral cortege leaving Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo, at 9 a.m. Rosary will be recited today at 8 p.m. at Chapel of the Hills.

The parents have requested tributes be memorial gifts to Sir Francis Drake High School in the name of the Daniel J. Vacha scholarship fund.

Mercy Flights Carry Mexico Quake Victims

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Mercy flights started bringing in injured victims today as the death toll mounted in remote areas hit by yesterday's earthquake.

At least 31 persons were reported killed in Guerrero State which bore the brunt of the earthquake felt along the entire length of Mexico yesterday. Between 90 and 95 per cent of the houses were reported destroyed in Cayuca de Catalan and Zierandero.

Equipment Is Stolen At Construction Site

Equipment including a home intercommunications system and a garbage disposal was stolen recently from a home under construction at 91 Knight Drive, San Rafael, police reported today.

Loss was set at $121 by the owner, Jack H. Walters Co. of Walnut Creek. The theft occurred sometime between June 30 and last Friday.

'Moonlight' Workers Warned

The Marin County Board of Supervisors learned today that a probation officer has been working in his spare time as a private investigator, without the department head's knowledge.

County Administrator Alan Bruce said Donald R. Miller, senior probation officer, is expected to quit his job with the county in a few weeks to take a fulltime position with the private firm.

County Probation Officer Walter H. Busher was not present for the discussion, but said in a memorandum that Miller's work would not conflict with his county job.

"I think maybe he ought to be terminated right now," said Supervisor George H. Ludy.

Supervisor Byron W. Leydecker said he has long felt the county's policy on "moonlighting" has been lax. He said Miller's case was a clear violation of county rules.

The county salary ordinance allows employees to hold a second job in their spare time, but only with permission of the department head and the board of supervisors.

Supervisor Peter H. Behr suggested there may be other "moonlighters" who do not let their department heads know about their extra jobs. He asked for a two-week delay during which all county employees holding outside jobs, with or without board approval, could be reviewed without facing a penalty.

The rest of the board agreed, and gave Miller the same two weeks to clear up his present arrangement.

MYSTERY

the jewelry and clothing by phone, Keaton decided to send the pictures down for positive identification.

Another indication that points to Mrs. Finkel is that the parka worn by the drowning victim bore a label from Orbach's, a Los Angeles department store.

The body was kept afloat by the tightly-tied parka which formed an air pocket. At first Keaton said the body had been in the water from 24 to 48 hours, but today he said it could have been floating since June 27. The cold water and the fact that it was floating would make the difference, he said.

One report from Monterey said that an Angie Hatch, who fit the victim's description, was missing from Bishop.

Another report came in of a woman who disappeared from the San Francisco International Airport on a flight from Arizona to Washington. She reportedly was carrying $5,000 in jewelry and $10,000 cash.

Keaton said he has received no word from Sacramento on fingerprints which were sent there for checking.

There were many calls from jewelers seeking to identify the two rings and the watch worn by the victim.

The woman, in her 30s, with light brown hair with blonde tinting, was 5 feet 2 and weighed 125 pounds. She was wearing a platinum ring with three large diamonds on her right hand, a platinum and gold wedding ring on her left hand and a gold wrist watch.

She was clothed in black hooded parka, black wool capri pants, a tan sweater, white calf boots and black socks.

GAME

Robinson of the Baltimore Orioles, following singles by Mickey Mantle of the Yanks and Harmon Killebrew of Minnesota, tied the score at 3-3 in the sixth.

Rocky Colavito, an 11th-hour sub for the injured Al Kaline, came through with a double in the seventh inning after Howard was hit by a Dick Farrell pitch. Jim Fregosi of Los Angeles, who scored the first run of the game, drove on Howard with a sacrifice fly to Mays.

With Radatz, fourth American League pitcher, humming that fast ball past the National Leaguers, the 4-3 lead looked safe going into the ninth.

Then it happened.

The line score:

American .....100 002 100—4 9 1
National .....000 210 004—7 8 0

Chance, Wyatt (0), Pascual (5), Radatz (7), and Howard; Drysdale, Bunning (4), Short (6), Farrell (7), Marichal (9), and Torre, Edwards (5). W—Marichal. L—Radatz.

Another Rights Worker Missing In Mississippi?

GREENWOOD, Miss. (AP) — A civil rights organization said today one of its workers had not been heard from since he was turned over to a Webster County deputy sheriff by the sheriff's office here.

The Leflore County sheriff's office said James Brown, 22, Negro civil rights worker from Itta Bena, was arrested last night by Itta Bena city police on a warrant from Webster County charging him with a traffic violation last month.

The sheriff's office said Brown was then released to a Webster deputy about 10 p.m. for transportation to Walthall, the seat of justice for Webster County.

Michael Sayer, a spokesman for the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, said his organization had tried unsuccessfully to determine Brown's whereabouts.

Mosk Lambastes Water Proposal

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk today said he opposed federal legislation which would place a 25-year limit on California's guaranteed Colorado River water supply and give the Secretary of the Interior power to prorate water shortages among the states.

In a luncheon speech, Mosk said he was "shocked" at a suggestion to compromise the rights of California's Colorado River projects to gain federal support for new federal projects California needs.

Mosk was objecting to water proposals advanced by Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall and Sen. Carl Hayden (D-Ariz.).

TRIAL

late yesterday by Judge Joseph G. Wilson.

Peter Allen Smith, public defender representing King, made the motion. He said association of his client, charged jointly with Jones, was harmful to King's right to a fair trial.

Thomas P. Boyd, attorney for Jones, dismissed the sculpturing effort as "occupational therapy."

It was learned today that an unidentified Sausalito sculptor telephoned the sheriff's office Sunday and expressed an interest in purchasing the object.

Boyd said the head, in the possession of the sheriff's office, is for sale, but since it is a work of art, the value is "intangible" and therefore an offer would be considered. The head should be completed first, he added.

In yesterday afternoon's testimony, Howard Bambury, night bellman at Mapes Hotel in Reno on March 29, said Jones and King arrived at the hotel about 1:30 a.m. in a yellow Lincoln convertible and checked into a room. King, he said, used the name "Corbett."

The pair left the hotel about an hour later after asking directions to Carson City, and didn't return until 5:30 a.m., Bambury testified. He said they then checked out of the hotel and he attempted to put their bags in the car's trunk but was unable to open the trunk.

Bambury said he remembered some autos have a trunk latch inside the car and he opened the glove compartment discovering a pistol. Shown a .380 caliber pistol introduced earlier as the alleged weapon with which the Harbor Liquor Store in Marin County was robbed on March 25, Bambury said, "It could be the same one. It looks like it."

He said the pair spent about 30 mintues in the hotel gambling casino before driving off. He said King mentioned he had lost about $200 gambling that morning.

Lt. Glenn Simmons of the Clark County (Nev.) sheriff's office testified he found the Lincoln, which had been rented from Avis Rent-a-Car System in San Francisco, in Las Vegas, early on April 1. He said the car, left in a parking lot, was "staked out" for four hours in case the men returned. They did not.

Lieutenant Simmons said the keys to a Porsche car, a key to Mapes Hotel, a dog leash and collar, and two cigars were found in the vehicle's glove compartment. He said several fingerprints were also taken from the car's interior.

Corbett's Porsche allegedly was stolen following his murder. A poodle owned by Mim, a Sausalito artist, was reported taken by Jones and King in their alleged flight to Las Vegas from Marin County.

Dick Willis, bell captain at International Hotel in Los Angeles, testified a black suitcase and cardboard box were checked at the hotel in early April. He said the Federal Bureau of Investigation later ordered the items opened and an inventory taken.

Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales said another prosecution witness is expected to testify about contents of suitcase and to link them to King and Jones.

Suspect Surrenders

PITTSBURG (UPI) — Dennis O. Camp, 25, of Pittsbug, surrendered to the California Highway Patrol yesterday in connection with the hit-run death of a 10-year-old girl in Concord.

Denise Marie Avilla of 2919 Richard Avenue was killed Sunday while riding a bicycle near her home. Camp's auto matched the description witnesses gave of the auto which struck the girl, officers said.

Sightless Trainee Injured In Traffic

A 20-year-old blind man, under training at Guide Dogs for the Blind, San Rafael, was injured yesterday when he walked into the side of a car while crossing Third Street at A Street with his dog.

Rudolph Franklin McClung of Dallas, Tex., was in satisfactory condition at San Rafael General Hospital today. He suffered facial cuts.

He walked into the side of a car driven by Katherine Eva Buckman, 54, of Portland, Ore., at 10:50 a.m. yesterday, San Rafael police reported. The dog was not injured.

Burglar Loots Office Of Camp Fire Girls

About $100 in cash was stolen from the Marin County office of the Camp Fire Girls at 263 West End Avenue, San Rafael, Sunday night or early Monday, San Rafael police reported today.

The burglar broke through the rear door of the office. The theft was discovered yesterday morning. It the afternoon, a cash box with receipts and some change was found outside, but $100 was still missing.

Sinatra Has A Big Blast

PARIS (UPI)—Singer Frank Sinatra went out on the town last night and tossed firecrackers while his bodyguards scuffled with photographers.

Two lensmen claimed they were roughed up. There were no arrests.

The running skirmish started when photographers mobbed Sinatra as he emerged from his Paris hotel with film agent Irving Lazar, friends, bodyguards and fashion models.

"Get the - - - - out of my way," Sinatra shouted. He pulled two baby firecrackers from his pocket, lit and tossed them.

Sinatra livened up the dinner party at a Left Bank restaurant with more firecrackers, causing one Frenchwoman at a neighboring table to fume, "he think's it's the 14th of July" (Bastile Day).

Sinatra was engulfed by popping flashbulbs again when his car pulled up outside a Left Bank night club after midnight.

"Clear them out," he cried, and bodyguards went into action. Nearby residents flung open their windows and shouted for the police. The photographers left.

Less than 24 hours earlier Sinatra had been bedded down in a Stockholm hotel suffering from "overstrain."

Fish-loving Americans own an estimated 23 million aquariums in the United States.

Saturnino de la Rubio Quevarra was on traffic duty in Madrid last December when he noticed a fire in a nearby warehouse. He quickly extinguished the flames.

He was awarded the trip to the fair when it was learned that he saved the rare expensive ceiling which was being stored prior to shipment to the fair.

Police Class Told Of Negro Shortchange

James Quiett, chairman of the Marin County Human Rights Commission, told 250 law enforcement personnel attending San Quentin Prison's race relations meeting yesterday afternoon that "an officer who doesn't respect the human being he's dealing with is going to make many, many mistakes.

"Many Negroes have had bad experiences with the law in the South," he explained. "You must win their trust and make them know you're their friend."

Quiett blamed part of the troubles of Negro youngsters in school on counselors who urge them to take easy non-college preparatory courses instead of the mathematics, English, history and other subjects that would enable them to qualify for higher education.

"The parents are also responsible, of course," he quickly added, "but they, too, are socially deprived. Negro mothers have to work because their husbands can't obtain or qualify for good enough jobs. They come home tired from a day's work, they have to cook dinner, and they can't help their kids with schoolwork.

"The point is that somewhere along the line someone was shortchanged, and I think you know who did the shortchanging."

Both Quiett and Mrs. Frances Lowry, secretary of the Marin Chapter of the Congress on Racial Equality, scored housing segregation in Marin County, which according to Quiett has made 90 per cent of Marin City Negro and over 99.9 per cent of the rest of the county non-Negro.

Don Warden, national chairman of the Afro-American Assn., told the conclave that "racial pride," not greater wealth, is the reason why other minority groups such as Chinese, Japanese and Jews have had low crime rates while the Negroes are responsible for about 65 per cent of Bay Area arrests.

"The Chinese were poor; so were the Japanese and the Jews when they arrived in this country. Why didn't they have the tremendous crime rates? Racial pride.

"Why, most of the crimes we commit are against each other! It comes to the weekend and we go out and knife each other or shoot each other or take dope. That's a luxury we can't afford, besides being evil.

"These are crimes that destroy the individual and the race."

The conference was attended by representatives from about 20 Northern California law enforcement agencies and penal institutions, in addition to San Quentin staff personnel. It was continuing today.

Youths Deny Resistance To Deputies

Two youths, allegedly involved in a scuffle with sheriff's deputies in Marin City, pleaded innocent before Judge Harold L. Haley in Marin Municipal Court yesterday.

The suspects, Ira Louis Edwards, 18, of 135 Drake Avenue, Marin City, and Burnist Earl Beauchamp, 21, of 2148 Post Street, San Francisco, are scheduled to appear for trial July 15 at 11 a.m.

Four deputies arrested the men on charges of resisting arrest and obstructing officers at 11:30 p.m. Sunday.

Deputies reported they found Edwards hiding in an attic at 261 Drake Avenue and attempted to arrest him on a warrant from Sausalito for joyriding last Tuesday.

Edwards resisted and Beauchamps interferred with arresting officers, the deputies reported. Deputies Charles Prandi and Eugene Brannan subdued and handcuffed Beauchamps while Deputies Alfred Curry and Gary J. Bartolotti handcuffed Edwards.

Deputy Prandi reported that he lost his tie and tie clip and a shirt button in the scuffle. Deputy Bartolotti lost his badge.

Edwards also was arraigned on a misdemeanor charge of joyriding and was granted a continuance until July 15. The two were released on their own recognizance.

Library Set To Improve Its Service

More copies of currently popular books will soon be available to borrowers at San Rafael Library, the library board decided last night.

An increase in the number of copies of best sellers in the library was approved through agreement with McNaughton Library Inc. to rent additional books until their popularity waned.

Mrs. Vivian Smith, librarian, said waiting lists for books will be shortened because of the board's action on her recommendation.

The cost of the service will be less than the cost of purchasing several copies of one book to meet the temporary reader demand and then, a year later, have the extra books unused on the shelves, she said.

Mrs. Smith reported the new summer bookmobile service on Mondays, Wednesday and Thursdays in the Bret Harte, Canal, Loch Lomond, Glenwood and Terra Linda areas has been well recieved. The bookmobile will continue to operate until Aug. 27.

Hobo King Says He's Due For A Little Rest

CINCINNATI (AP)—Jeff Davis says he's abdicating as king of the hoboes and emperor of the knights of the road.

"I'll be 81 years old in August and I'm worn out," he said Monday night in Cincinnati. "I need some privacy." He said he'll turn over the reins to Al Kersey, a retired Toledo, Ohio, railroader, who is to be crowned next June at the hobo convention in Pittsburgh.

HOLLIS HEADS 1966 PARADE OF POLITICOS

County Supt. of Schools Virgil S. Hollis last night may have become the first Marin County politician to announce his candidacy this year—for 1966.

Last night he mentioned that he intends to seek his third term in an offhand remark while discussing hiring of teachers. He was noting that teachers are usually hired in June, but that a new superintendent takes office in January.

"Of course, I intend to run again," Hollis said, in an effort to relieve the minds of newcomers to the county board of education who were not serving when superintendents changed in the middle of a fiscal and school year.

Pension Plan Raise Voted On Larkspur

The Larkspur City Council last night granted an average seven and one-half per cent wage increase for all city employees, except the city manager.

The increase, however, will be absorbed in payments to the state retirement system, also approved by the council for city employees last night. Take home pay of employees will not be increased, accroding to Mayor Neil R. Brixon.

Brixon said the retirement system, which is subject to a vote of approval of the employees, will not add to the city's tax rate this year.

The council at the budget session authorized making fulltime the parttime positions of one policeman, fireman and the police clerk. The position of sergeant was created for the police department.

The council decided not to meet Wednesday night and adjourned to a meeting set for July 15, when the budget will again be studied and a decision will be made on a salary increase for City Mgr. Ronald E. Piper.

VALLEY EDUCATOR TAKES MARIN POST

Merced Area Superintendent Fills Director Of Instruction Vacancy

Lawrence Lindberg, superintendent of Weaver Union School District in Merced County, was named last night as the new director of instruction in the Marin County schools office.

Lindberg, 38, will take over the $15,000-a-year post which has been upgraded to include new duties since Stanley Friese was promoted to assistant superintendent. He has served as principal of schools in Washington and Southern California.

The Marin County Board of Education last night approved the appointment.

Selected from among more than 30 candidates, the new director will be responsible for the instructional materials center and professional library and educational television program, in addition to directing the staff of county teachers.

The board set tax rates to be imposed for education of mentally retarded children. A tax of slightly less than three cents per $100 assessed valuation was approved for districts with fewer than 800 students for educable mentally retarded children, and a tax of slightly less than two cents will be applied countywide for trainable mentally retarded.

The board agreed to add an 11th class for the educable mentally retarded, in Novato, at cost projected at $14,068.

The Marin County Planning Commission Also:

1. Agreed to a change in boundaries between the Tomales high school district and Analy high school district of Sonoma county to include the area of the old Potter school district in the Analy district, thus setting the stage for a unification move by a unionization election July 28.
2. Elected Robert G. Randolph as president of the board for the new fiscal year, replacing Arnold Dolcini Jr. James A. Carroll was named vice president.

Crash Into Pole Injures Driver, Sets Grass Afire

A 42-year-old Fairfax man was seriously injured yesterday when the car he was driving severed a power pole on Hicks Valley Road.

Power lines fell to the ground, causing two grass fires eight-tenths of a mile west of the Point Reyes-Petaluma Road at 12:10 p.m.

William H. Givens, whose face smashed into the pole, was in fair condition at Novato General Hospital today with multiple broken bones in his face. A passenger in his car, Mack Medlin, 40, of the same address was treated at the hospital for bruises on back and ribs.

Givens was driving south on Hicks Valley Road when his car went off the road on a curve, ran into a ditch, severed the pole and knocked out 75 feet of wood and wire fencing, the California Highway Patrol reported.

The county fire department put out the fires in two 20-by-100 foot areas.

Crash On Narrow Road Injures Two

Two persons were injured yesterday on Carson Road at Castle Rock Drive, Woodacre, when two cars, trying to avoid collision on the narrow road, turned into each other at 6:45 p.m.

Melville Harold Dickson, 22, of Woodacre, was treated at San Rafael General Hospital for a cut toe. Mrs. Bertha Wood, 52, of Woodacre, was a passenger in the car driven by her husband, Seth, was treated at Marin General Hospital for a bruised forehead.

Several Banks Offer Tiburon Budget Boost

Money lenders seem to be standing in line in their eagerness to negotiate a loan to the newly formed city of Tiburon.

It the forefront is the Tiburon National Bank, which has offered a 3¼ per cent interest rate for one year to the city's announced intention to borrow up to $30,000. The funds would be used to finance city operations until taxes and other state reimburements come in..

Crocker-Citizens National Bank, with an office in Tiburon, has offered 3½ per cent. Least eager is the County of Marin, which has set a 3⅞ per cent rate; four years ago supervisors charged no interest on a $25,000 loan to the newly incorporated City of Novato.

Hearing the formal and informal loan offers last night, Tiburon city councilmen agreed they would consider where to get their money at next Monday's meeting at Del Mar School, when City Treasurer Gordon W. Russell will make a complete report.

Councilmen noted that city revenues for the first year are estimated to total $130,821, while expenses are estimated at $104,306.

But Warren Schmid, interim city manager, told the council his estimates were really "guesstimates" as the city has no history on which to base budget judgements.

Financing of the city's first year will necessitate much "interfund" borrowing, he said, meaning that money will be switched back and forth on the books between the general fund and funds restricted by law.

The first modern Olympic Games were held in Athens in 1896 with nine nations competing.

Belvedere Votes Budget; 12-Cent Tax Cut Seen

The Belvedere City Council last night adopted a $231,000 budget for 1964-65 that is expected to permit a 12-cent cut in the tax rate.

The tax rate for 1964-65 is estimated at $2.32 per $100 valuation as compared to the 1963-64 rate of $2.46.

"We cut the operating budget, not to the bone, but to a fair limit," reported Councilman Thomas S. Price, budget committee chairman. "If our estimate of assessed valuation is right, we'll have a reduced tax rate."

A breakdown on the estimated tax rate is: general fund, $1.02, sanitation fund, .41; fire protection fund, .12; fire main fund, .08; 1948 bond fund, .17; 1957 bond fund, .073, and 1961 bond fund, .45.

The budget includes pay raises for police, boosting the patrolmen's salary from $458 to $517, the sergeant's salary from $505 to $556, and the chief's salary from $710 to $745.

A revised salary table provides a salary range of $745 to $905 for police chief, $556 to $676 for police sergeant, and $517 to $628 for patrolmen.

The council also welcomed William L. Cavelli, city clerk and administrative officer of King City in Monterey County, who will become city manager and city clerk of Belvedere Aug. 1 to succeed City Mgr. Britton Rey, who will retire.

The Belvedere City Council Also:

1. Approved entering into a contract with Tiburon Sanitary District for maintenance of the city's sewer system at a cost of $25,400 a year for one year with an option to renew the contract.
2. Authorized Rey to negotiate with James McAlister of Belvedere for the leasing of a police patrol car for a two-year period.
3. Authorized the fire department to purchase a pickup truck at an estimated cost of $6,100.
4. Appointed a committee to study the possibility of contributing funds to a proposed flood control district. Council members John R. Moore, Thomas S. Price and Mrs. Sally Mathews and former councilman Dr. John H. Flint were named as committee members.
5. Directed the city planning commission to keep the council informed of state highway plans.
6. Adjourned until July 20 at 8 p.m. to consider the appointment of a city treasurer, to succeed Mrs. Britton Rey who is retiring, and appointment of a building inspector, a post now held by Rey.

Fairfax Man Denies Charge Of Petty Theft

Michael S. Whitaker, 22, of 7 Creek Road, Fairfax, pleaded innocent to charge of petty theft before Judge Harold L. Haley in Marin Municipal Court yesterday and trial was set for July 15 at 9:30 a.m.

Whitaker was arrested yesterday after he allegedly drove from a Fairfax service station without paying or arranging to pay a $43 repair bill. Judge Haley reduced Whitaker's bail from $291 to $50.

Meeting Is Advanced

Sausalito library trustees will meet tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. at the public library. The board will not meet July 15, as regularly scheduled, since it could not raise a quorum for that date, according to Mrs. Cynthia B. Willcox, librarian.

'Diamond Jim' Given Year In County Jail

James A. (Diamond Jim) Pattillo, the big spender who sailed away from Sausalito last December with money and luxuries from a $200,000 embezzlement and with a blonde to share it with, was sentenced to one year in San Francisco County Jail yesterday.

The light sentence brought protest from the prosecution in San Francisco Superior Court. Judge Harry J. Neubarth softened the sentence at request of the George Windeler Co., Pattillo's former employer.

The attorney for the company, of which Pattillo was secretary-treasurer, said Patillo has returned $50,000.

Patillo had pleaded guilty to one count of grand theft and one count of forgery in connection with the embezzlement, normally state prison offenses.

Judge Neubarth gave Pattillo a suspended one-to-15-year prison sentence. Pattillo is also to remain on probation for three years after the jail sentence.

The Coast Guard overhauled Pattillo on his pleasure craft, Big Jim, off the Monterey coast and brought him back to the mainland to face the music.

Out on bail since his arraignment, Pattillo has taken up art, opening a shop in the city. He failed to appear at one court hearing recently, however, and bail was revoked.

Governor Files For Barry's Job

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI)—Gov. Paul Fannin filed his nomination petition yesterday for the U.S. Senate seat now held by Republican presidential hopeful Barry Goldwater.

Fannin, a third-term governor, filed the papers with the Secretary of State.

He said earlier that he would withdraw from the race if Goldwater fails to win the GOP presidential nomination. This would clear the way for Goldwater to seek a third term.

'Egg Yolk Baron' Won't Have To Stand Trial Again

Andrew von Salza, known as the Egg Yolk Baron because of his rejuvenation treatments, will not have to go through another grand theft trial.

Two previous trials resulted in hung juries. The San Francisco district attorney's office asked yesterday that charges be dropped rather than try again. A third trial would be expensive, time-consuming and probably unsuccessful, the prosecution said.

The baron, who once eyed Marin County property as the site of a proposed rejuvenation center, was forgiving after the dismissal by San Francisco Superior Court Judge Francis McCarty.

Von Salza said the charges were due to a "misunderstanding" by two women who claimed the baron's treatments fell somewhat short of success.

The baron's secret treatment involves injections of fertilized eggs, given at a certain precise stage of incubation.

Army Engineers Receive Protests

About 10 objections to widening and deepening Lagunitas Creek about 3,000 feet west of Point Reyes Station have been received by the Army Corps of Engineers.

Application for a navigational permit to remove about 18,000 cubic yards of sand and gravel from the creek to be used as a fill on marshland adjacent to the area was made to the Corps by Point Reyes Station rancher Waldo G. Giacomini.

The objections have been taken under consideration but no date has been set for announcement of a decision on the matter, the San Francisco office of the corps reported today.

PEARLS ... GEMS OF THE SEA!

An oyster is carefully opened to prepare it for seeding. At left are the pieces of round shell which will be imbedded to form a pearl.

Darn clever these oysters!

These simple little creatures can do what man, with all his inventiveness, has never been able to do—make a pearl.

Not that man hasn't tried.

Since the 13th Century, when the Chinese first tried to stimulate an oyster into producing a pearl, man has been trying to imitate the oyster. He's used fish scales and flour, paste and plastics, lacquers and fine metals, but has never succeeded.

Toward the end of the 19th Century a Japanese naturalist found the secret of stimulating the oyster into producing a pearl. He discovered that oysters secrete many layers of a pearl substance called nacre around an irritant caught firmly in its flesh.

The next step was to capture a lot of oysters, implant a piece of polished shell to act as an irritant, graft a piece of oyster tissue over it and then place them all back in the sea in baskets so that they could be easily recovered after they had produced their pearls.

The Japanese later discovered that a perfectly round irritant improved the chance of getting a perfectly round pearl, that specially bred oysters were better producers, that the oysters had to be cleaned twice a year to remove parasites and that they had to be moved to warmer climates when the temperature dropped.

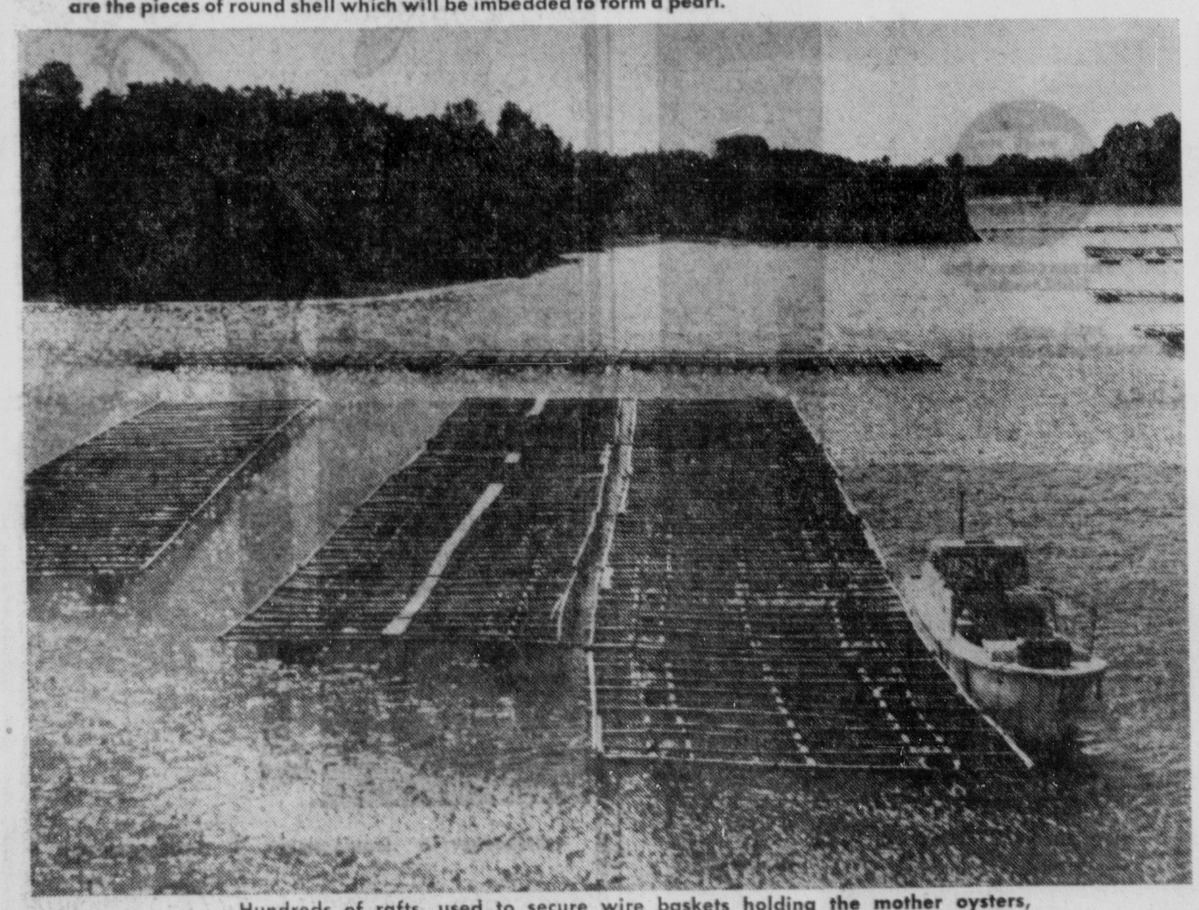
Everything they tried didn't work, though. They tried getting oysters to produce more than one pearl at a time and did manage to get as many as five pearls in one oyster. But the strain was too much and most of the oysters died.

They tried attaching sun lamps to the oyster rafts to fool the crustaceans into working at night but the oysters weren't impressed.

Now they are toying with an irrigation system, an underwater network of pipes to force fresh sea water laden with food through the oyster beds at a constant rate to make them grow faster.

It looks good so far but, then again, you can never tell about these oysters. They just don't seem to like being pushed!

A piece of flesh is cut from an oyster to prepare it for seeding. An irritant will be grafted into the flesh and left to produce a pearl.



Hundreds of rafts, used to secure wire baskets holding the mother oysters, line the shores of Ago Bay, one of the prime pearl cultivation areas in Japan.

Twice a year the pearl oysters are brought up from under the rafts for an examination.

Pearls are sorted and graded according to roundness, size and luster and then pierced and strung for export around the world.

Mill Valley Is Split On Assess Method

Mill Valley city councilmen appeared divided last night on whether to support a Sausalito resolution calling for outlawing of the county assessor's cyclical appraisal method, but delayed action until their July 20 meeting.

Councilman Albert E. White said he supports the Sausalito resolution. "Something is wrong and people aren't happy with cycle reappraisals," he declared.

Acting Mayor William M. Secor asked White to put his views in writing and present them at the July 20 meeting.

Councilman George E. Wickham said he thinks there is inequity in cycle reappraisals.

Councilman Joseph E. Sheeks said, "the argument against the cycle reappraisals is, for example, this year Sausalito will bear a larger proportion of the county budget than if the whole county had been reappraised this year. But by the same sign, they will bear a smaller amount next year whereas Mill Valley will carry a larger proportion."

Mayor Michael Wornum was absent.

The Mill Valley Council Also:

1. Denied A. J. Silveira's request for an additional taxicab license, based on recommendation of city Mgr. Bert Balmer, who said he believes the city has enough cabs. He said there are eight.

2. Directed the assistant fire chief to see that weeds are cleared on a lot owned by A. A. Tiscornia, at Locust and Sycamore avenues, with Tiscornia to be billed.

3. Set July 20 as date for hearing on rezoning Oliver Sollom's property near the corner of Camino Alto and East Blithedale Avenue from commercial services to professional-administrative.

4. Awarded a contract to C. D. Madsen Inc. of Corte Madera for the West Blithedale Sewer Assessment district as low bidder at $14,412. Other bidders were Piombo Brothers, $15,710; A. J. Bresnan and Co., $16,273; V. Maggiora and Son, Inc., $17,763, and J. K. Construction Co., $20,555.

5. Adopted an ordinance zoning Boyle, Freeman, Molino, Sycamore, Kathleen Norris Parks and Miller Grove, the golf course and pro shop and Three Wells as open area.

6. Adopted a resolution to accept an alternate route to Scott Valley Unit 3.

7. Denied review of planning commission denial of a permit for Dr. John Lee to build a medical-dental building at 279 Miller Avenue, by splitting 2-2, councilmen Secor and Sheeks voting "no." The building would be a commercial use in a residential zone.

8. Authorized an agreement with the county whereby the county will contribute $66,000 to widen Miller Avenue extension to four lanes to Almonte Boulevard, the job to start near the end of July.

9. Introduced an ordinance to zone Scott annexation in four separate zones with lots of 15,000 and 20,000 square feet, portions in open area, and an unclassified zone on the railroad right-of-way.

10. Asked Balmer to advise council as to location of three parcels of land in Richardson Bay's flood control zone 3 leased by George Kappas from the county.

11. Heard Balmer say he will look into the entire question of sewer agreements with districts with oulying districts that are tied into the city system and report to council before summer's end.

12. Continued to July 20 a request from Dr. Alan B. Scott for resubdivision from four to three lots at Marlin and Avon avenues.

13. Granted sewer fee rebates of $235 each to John Hopkins and Martin Mulkeen.

14. Recommended the board of supervisors support a proposed county ordinance providing that minor subdivisions of land adjacent to municipalities conform to existing minor subdivision ordinances of cities.

15. Heard that city atty. Leland H. Jordan has concluded it is permissable for cities to charge $4 for a dog license fee and Mill Valley's will remain at $4.

Corte Madera Has Praise For Assessor

The Corte Madera Town Council last night praised County Tax Assessor Bert W. Broemmel and refused to back a resolution of the Sausalito City Council condemming his cyclical appraisal method.

The resolution protested the "extreme increase in assessed value" and asked that other ways be found to lighten property tax increases.

The council agreed that the percentage of taxes paid on the market value of property in Marin County was below the state average.

Town Mgr. Arthur H. Brandow dow said, "The county assessor does a very good job." Mayor Edward W. Colthurst said there were "a lot of assumptions" in Sausalito's resolution.

The mayor pointed out, however, "We'll have that problem next year" when the Corte Madera area is due to be reappraised.

The Corte Madera Town Council also:

1. Instructed Brandow to keep negotiating with the Del Mahood family for purchase of the site for the public safety building.

2. Heard that Police Officer Charles Newman had returned to work after suffering a heart attack and that he had received his full salary while recuperating.

3. Instructed Brandow to meet with representatives of the Marina Village Homeowners Assn. regarding a violation of the subdivision ordinance.

4. Instructed Brandow to secure the final subdivision map on the Campbell-Bishop Chevrolet agency site on Paradise Drive so that a subdivision agreement can be secured before the area is illegally subdivided.

5. Decided to keep charging $4 for dog license fees although an old law provides that cities can not charge more than $3.

6. Endorsed the capital fund drive of the Marin County Humane Society for a new facility.

7. Agreed that Brandow works for the town at the council's pleasure and terminated an old agreement whereby three months notice for termination of employment was to be given by either the council or Brandow.

Park Group Wants To Pass On Rezone Plans

The Novato Parks and Recreation Commission wants to pass on all plans for development and rezoning of lands adjacent to school sites.

The commission so voted unanimously last night (with Donald Slezak and Warren N. Tracy absent), as Commissioner Alton Lerch urged the action as a means of starting a school-park plan for Novato.

Commissioner Helen Greving said a plan for developing parks and recreation areas in connection with schools has been worked on by a committee for a year and a proposed agreement is in the hands of the county counsel for review.

Lerch said this should have been brought out at a joint meeting of par-recreation and planning commissions last week. Mrs. Greving said it was.

"This was started as a committee project a year ago, but you would not attend even though you were one member of the two-man committee," Mrs. Greving said. She said that not until Lerch got off the committee and Slezak was named in his place did the committee accomplish anything.

"We lost six months there," she said.

Lerch moved to go directly to the council with the plan, without wating for the county counsel's opinion. The motion died for lack of a second.

Keener then made the motion, which passed, to ask to see any plan for development or rezoning land adjacent to school sites prior to planning commission action.

Edmund Mahaney, director of parks and recreation, reported part of the land adjacent to the old Novato Cemetery is up for subdivision. He said that final hearing and condemnation by the city council is scheduled Sept. 8.

The Novato Parks and Recreation Commission also:

1. Elected Mrs. Greving chairman and William Keener vice chairman for the remainder of the calendar year. Mrs. Greving replaces Gordon Tandy, who resigned, as chairman, Keener replaces Mrs. Greving as vice chairman.

2. Asked for architect Gordon Phillips' report on work necessary to bring the community house up to code standards.

3. Heard from Mahaney that attendance at the municipal swimming pool had reached a peak of 450 people in one day. Mahaney said he had met with teen club members and would meet with them again on the hours and prices before reporting to the city council next Tuesday. A delegation of teen club members has protested the prices and schedule of the pool.

Tourist Wounded

BERLIN (UPI)—Army investigators questioned an American soldier today to find out why he was shot and wounded during a sightseeing trip to communist East Berlin. Authorities identified the wounded man as Pvt. John M. Coppage, 19, of Oklahoma City, Okla., and said he had recovered sufficiently to give details of his experience. But the investigation was still under way and an army spokesman did not disclose Coppage's story.

Action Held Up On Dillon Beach Plan

The Marin County Planning Commission yesterday held up action on a 104-lot subdivision at Dillon Beach after senior planner Ned Parsons said it may be the start of subdivision of 700 acres in the area.

Applicants James B. Keegan and Henry F. Trione were told to return July 20 with new road plans. Parsons said the 60-foot wide main road proposed could not serve the ultimate development.

Parsons said he would like to await approval of the West Marin master plan.

The subdivision, named Oceana Unit 2, is on 33.5 acres just north of Dillon Beach. The beach area itself, is planned for a recreation area for residents of the subdivision.

Engineer Philip Lygren said the road proposed was not designed to serve the entire area. He said eventually a new road would run along a ridge and intercept the Tomales-Dillon Beach Road, but, that may be years away.

The commission also held up until July 20 action on a new submittal of a subdivision map, now named Kent Woodlands Unit 17, for which house pads were graded before a map was submitted.

Lygren, also handling this item, said the original map approved for subdivision had a road running through the best building sites.

Commissioner Felix M. Warburg said he had seen the area and felt that several of the sites as graded could not be built upon anyway. He called them "slide lots."

Grading has destroyed most of the trees in the area, Warburg charged. Those left standing will die soon, he predicted, calling the whole development a "disaster."

The commission asked for a contour map and a report from a soils engineer.

A request by Edward Halperin for commercial zoning at 689 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard to allow construction of a branch of the Tiburon National Bank was turned down after the staff complained it would be spot zoning. There is a school on either side of the lot, now zoned residential.

Attorney E. Warren McGuire said main access would be from Wolfe Grade extension, not yet built, and that traffic hazards could be solved. But Warburg said there would not be enough room on the quarter-acre lot for a bank anyway.

Chairman Niels Schultz Jr. abstained in the vote.

The Marin County Board Of Education Also:

1. Approved plans for a shopping center with 100,000 square feet of shopping space on 10 acre at Redwood Boulevard and Belvedere Drive, Strawberry, requested by Pacific National Bank. Warburg voted against the architectural supervision because of the parking arrangement.

2. Took no action on the proposed lot split ordinance, but was promised by planning director B. D. Dobbs that text of a proposed ordinance would be ready by the July 20 meeting.

3. Put over to July 20 setting of hearings on the Kentfield master plan, awaiting word from citizen groups in Kentfield.

4. Set a review July 20 of the ordinance on the zoning administrator, including particularly the question of whether the administrator, now being recruited, should handle architectural supervision.

5. Denied request by John A. Ribeiro Jr. for a subdivision at 130 Yale Street, near Mill Valley, into three small lots, two of which would be less than 6,000 square feet in area.

6. Approved a use permit for the Daughters of the Holy Ghost to build a novitate at the end of Fix Lane, between sleepy Hollow and Terra Linda.

7. Approved plans for a tennis club near the end of the Stinson beach sand spit for residents of Seacrift subdivision, but limited use to daylight hours.

8. Approved plans for a clubhouse and swimming pool for the Wildnorse Valley subdivision at Peacock Road near Davis Avenue, West Novato.

9. Approved a change in the subdivision map of Bel Marin keys to add one lot by making several lots smaller, but denied another request to eliminate an open area to allow more lots.

10 Approved residential zoning allowing average lot sizes of 20,000 square feet with water de-

Eichler Told Talk To Residents About Plan

The Marin County Planning Commission yesterday told Eichler Homes, Inc., to talk with present residents of the Lucas Valley subdivision on plans for a major revision of the Lucas Valley master plan, but agreed informally that removal of some town houses and replacement by houses might be wise.

The commissioners said removal of a church site from the plan is premature, and that the proposed replacement of other town houses with apartments may create problems.

Several Lucas Valley residents appeared, to protest the change in the master plan, saying the townhouse areas as originally planned had internal space for recreational facilities, but the apartments and homes would not.

Engineer Ronald Simpkins answered that Eichler may build a swimming pool in one residential area to ease the pressure on the present community center.

Principal County Planner David Van Pelt said houses in the area would be better than the town houses approved earlier, and that the proposed one-story apartments looked, from the road, like single-family dwellings.

Eichler also asked to be allowed to move a proposed shopping area site from near the center of the development to a spot next to the Marin County Farm.

Van Pelt did not object, but Edward Andersen, a resident of the area, said the effect would be to transfer Idylberry Drive, an internal street, into a main thoroughfare.

Birch Scholarship Set Up For Negro

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The John Birch Society has established a $1,000 scholarship for a Negro girl or boy planning to enter college, according to John Rousselot, national director of public relations for the society.

Rousselot said yesterday that starting in September, the award will be given through the Manning Johnson scholarship fund and committee, named for the late author of "Color, Communism and Common Sense."

The committee members are Rousselot, Mrs. Julia Brown of Cleveland, a Negro lecturer and former undercover agent for the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and the Rev. J. L. Ward of Memphis, leader of the Prince of Peace movement.

1964 Compared To 1948 Upset

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Republican convention Chairman Thruston B. Morton gives his party's candidate about as much chance of beating President Lyndon B. Johnson this year as Harry Truman had of defeating Thomas E. Dewey in 1948.

Truman won that year, to the surprise of pollsters and other experts who had forecast otherwise.

Arriving here last night, Morton was asked about the GOP nominee's chances of winning in November. The Kentucky Senator, a former national party chairman, replied those chances are "not much better than the odds were on Harry Truman in 1948."

Not Guilty Plea Entered In Stolen Check Case

Edward E. Dora, 26, of San Francisco pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to a charge of passing a fraudulent check, and trial was set for Aug. 18-19 by Judge Richard M. Sims Jr.

Dora was charged with passing the check for $150 at George's Recreation Parlor, 842 Fourth Street, San Rafael, last April 14. The check reportedly was missing from the office of the Pacific Co. Engineers and Builders of Berkeley at the Del Mar School construction site in Tiburon.

Firecrackers? No, Auto Crashes Into Backyard

It sounded like "a thousand firecrackers" to Mrs. R. L. Hood of 17 Broadway, Kentfield, Sunday at 10 a.m. and she rushed to her front porch.

Her neighbors said to look in her backyard.

So doing, she found an automobile sitting on top of the backyard barbecue.

The white sedan belonged to Joseph Ruegg, 22, of Palto Alto, visiting Franz Hinkley, 22, of 2 Villa Court, Kentfield. Both are recent graduates of University of Oregon at Eugene.

They had just unloaded a boat and trailer from Ruegg's car after returning from a Lake Tahoe holiday.

Directly down the steeply inclined street from the Hinkley residence is Mrs. Hood's home. And that's where the car went.

Trying to stop the vehicle, Ruegg was knocked over by its open door. He suffered a cut knee.

Mrs. Hood lost one side of a cement foundation picket fence, a few flowers and trees, and the contour of her terraced backyard.

Victim Issues Warning To Footgear Snatcher

RUSSELVILLE, Ark. (UPI)—A Russelville teen-ager, whose shoes were stolen at the local swimming pool July 4, had a message for the thief in a local newspaper yesterday:

"I just want you to know I have a severe case of athlete's foot. If you don't want to wear them, please return them to the pool."

Pair Of Criminal Trials Postponed

Two criminal trials scheduled in Marin Superior Court have been postponed until next week.

Trial of Robert Leon Leonard, 36, of San Pablo, on a charge of receiving stolen property was postponed until July 16. Leonard was arrested Jan. 29 for allegedly taking $20 from a car owned by Rev. Carl E. Walker of Burlingame, parked at McClure's Beach.

A joint trial of LeRoy Patrick Grundhauser, 25, and his brother, John Grundhauser, 28, on charges of assault with a deadly weapon was continued until Monday for re-setting of trial date.

The brothers allegedly assaulted John Anthony Montero and Billie Jo Miller Jr. with knives Feb. 8 in San Rafael.

Harold, last Saxon king of England, was slain Oct. 14, 1066.

Absentees Still Symie Open Zoning Decision

The Marin County Planning Commission yesterday was again stymied in an attempt to decide whether there should be open area zoning on lands of Marin Municipal Water District.

This time the vote was 3-3, with four votes necessary to take action, but with Commissioner George Scott absent.

Since this was the second time the question had failed to gain the necessary four votes, the commission agreed to send the results, such as they were, to the county board of supervisors.

The commission also asked the county planning staff to present a proposed ordinance would designate as "public lands" and would not even allow the uses permitted in the present open area zone.

Commissioners Felix M. Warburg, William F. Upton and Eugene R. Trombley voted to place open area zoning on the lands around Nicasio Reservoir and other water district lands in the Fairfax area not contemplated for use as a state park.

Opposed were Chairman Niels Schultz Jr. and commissioners Edward K. Wachsman and Henry C. Hankins. On an earlier vote, Wachsman had been absent, giving a 3-2 vote in favor of the new zone, but not enough to put it into effect.

Schultz said he felt that although the open area zoning was more restrictive than the present zoning, it also implies there will be recreational use, and might lead to public pressure on the water district board to increase recreational use of reservoirs.

He agreed the present zoning is not adequate, and joined with Upton in asking for creation of a new zone which would, in essence, freeze development of the lands as they now are.

U.S. Blacklists More Ships For Cuban Trade

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Five more foreign-flag ships have been blacklisted by the U.S. government for trading with Cuba.

The five added yesterday to the list of vessels ineligible to carry government-financed cargoes from the United States were the British ships Peony and Venice, the Lebanese ships Kapetanissa and San George, and the Italian ship Nino Bixio.

Borax Lake in Lake County was the first commercial source of borax in California.

Rodeo Men Get Rough Over Referee's Actions

LONGVIEW, Tex. (UPI)—Rodeo official Buddy Roberts, 29, of Houston, was recovering today from stab wounds suffered at the hands of 10 cowboys angered by his decisions.

The fight broke out at a party to celebrate the end of a three-day Fourth of July weekend rodeo at nearby Jefferson, Tex. Ansleigh Lester, producer of the rodeo, said the cowboys jumped Roberts as he got into his car to leave.

Cabinet Juggled

AMMAN, Jordan (UPI) — King Hussein switched prime ministers last night in an apparent move to strengthen conciliation efforts with other Arab states, particularly the United Arab Republic. Prime Minister Sharif Husain Bin Nasir and his cabinet resigned and immediately were replaced by a new government headed by Bahjat Talhouni.

'Alert Team' Warns Educators On Impending Issues In State

About 75 school board members from in and near Marin County listened in Corte Madera last night as an "alert team" from the California School Boards Assn. spelled out four major challenges — all related to pending or possible state legislation—facing them in coming months.

Three speakers read four printed speeches identical to those being read in four other cities at the same time. The messages have been presented in a total of 42 cities throughout the state by July 15.

Rather than proposing a stand on the issues, the trio explained the association is seeking to provide local school boards with facts so they may form their own positions on them.

Speakers were association consultants Glenn W. Hoffman and Warren Carson, and Vallejo school trustee Alfred Newman.

Of their topics, perhaps the most controversial was the issue of de facto segregation, discussed in a talk titled "The Fourth R" (for "revolution" taking place in schools), read by Newman. But all concerned long-range, difficult problems in which local school boards are directly involved.

In another of the prepared speeches, Newman told of current proposals for civil service hiring of school districts' non-teaching employees.

Hoffman, who gave the evening's first presentation, described teachers' growing demands for some form of collective bargaining. Carson, who specializes in school finance matters, read a talk on the controversial Unruh Education Act.

These were some of the highlights of their remarks:

Segregation—Lest any listener feel this was not yet his problem, the speech warned that "more demonstrations were staged and more desegregation battles were won in the North during the last two years than in the previous eight."

Citing several solutions which have been tried—ranging from redrawing boundaries to more complex plans such as "pairing" schools for lower and upper grades—the speech stressed that "there is no one formula or solution that will meet all problems."

Nevertheless, it concluded, "school administrators are going to be asked to provide the leadership that will enable administrators to develop comprehensive plans." It predicted they will be forced to grapple with embarrassing questions such as why young or less competent teachers "are assigned to the least 'desirable' yet professionally most demanding depressed area schools."

These questions in turn, it said, may lead to "still bigger questions" such as: "To what extent is integration by itself an educational goal or a national necessity? And if either, for us in education, what priority in the application of our funds, our talents, and our resources shall it have?"

Collective Bargaining — Teachers have long accepted the National Education Assn. as their leading spokesman, Hoffman's talk said, but many today are turning to the American Federation of Teachers, a union which believes they have the right to strike, if necessary, for better wages and other demands, including the desire to force "board members to share their power of decision."

This new climate, he continued, may present several dangers to school boards, including the effects of a "war" between NEA and AFT to see who can provide more benefits, and a drain on superintendents' time as they act as "middle men."

Noting that teachers' groups today are asking local boards to sign documents officially recognizing their bargaining status, the speech urged board members not to do so until they have fully studied possible legal consequences.

Civil Service—"At the present time the California School Boards Assn. opposes any form of mandatory civil service," of which several plans are set forth in pending state bills.

Primary reason, Newman explained, is to assure local control of such programs and the right to set them up, or reject them on a local level.

"The point is, however, that every school board in California may well have to face the issue of a mandatory civil service merit system for their districts within the next year unless they have a positive program of personnel management."

Unruh Act — This will become law Aug. 21, unless a November referendum can be brought about to place portions of it on the ballot.

Chances of this being accomplished, however, are slim, Carson stated, so school boards probably must learn to live with its program of "rewards and punishments" to encourage school district unification.

The act's intent, the talk concluded, "is indicated to be to equalize the tax base for school support throughout the state and also to equalize the effort of the local taxpayers within given geographical regions."

Nevertheless, it said, the bill appears to recognize that some communities may feel so strongly about maintaining their own small districts they will "shoulder the additional tax burden," which is on of the act's "punishments."

County Board Uses Caution Over Buying Welfare Film

"The Battle of Newburgh" will not be fought in Marin County, at least for a month.

The Marin County Board of Education last night held up purchase of the film about the New York town and its struggle over welfare programs until board members have a chance to see the picture for themselves.

The film was included in a list of 45 of which purchase was recommended by Asst. Supt. Stanley Friese. He said the film had been previewed at eight high schools in the county and teachers were unanimously in favor of its purchase. (Marin County has only seven public high schools but also has five sectarian and private high schools.)

York town and its struggle over welfare programs until board members have a chance to see the picture for themselves.

Supt. of Schools Virgil S. Hollis, however, said once the film is purchased, "people are going to ask questions." He said he was not opposed to having the film in the county's library of movies, but board members should see it first.

The board will meet a half hour early at its next meeting to see the picture.

Goldwater Votes Against LBJ's Anti-Poverty Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate Labor Committee approved President Lyndon B. Johnson's 962.5 million-dollar anti-poverty bill today by a vote of 13-2. Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) cast one of the opposing votes.

The committee, which has been under heavy administration pressure to move swiftly, completed action on the measure at its first final closed session devoted to it.

However, Sen. Pat McNamara (D-Mich.), chief sponsor of the bill, said it would not come up on the Senate floor until Congress returns after its recess for the Republican National Convention.

Goldwater, front-running candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, was not present for the meeting but voted by proxy.

Crowd Offers Ideas On Cove Road Issue

The Belvedere City Council approved a compromise plan for controlling traffic at the Cove Road junction with Tiburon Boulevard after a two-hour hearing last night.

More than 50 residents crowded the council chambers to discuss the proposed closing of Cove Road. Some protested the closing, others pushed for it, and a few offered compromise solutions.

Councilmen agreed to place traffic signs to prevent Tiburon Boulevard traffic from turning into Cove Road, and to prevent Cove Road drivers from making a left turn onto the boulevard.

The system will be installed on an experimental basis for 60 days, said Mayor Merritt K. Ruddock.

Richard Adams of 36 Cove Road asked that the road be closed because of speeding cars and traffic hazard. Traffic is heavy on weekends and cars g 50 to 60 miles an hour, Adams complained.

Dr. William S. Cappeller of 92 Lagoon Road presented a petition bearing some 30 signatures opposing the closing. The road provides a needed access, he said.

Mayor Ruddock read a letter from the State Highway Transportation Agency notifying the council that it would need permission from the State Department of Public Works before it could close Cove Road, an access road to a state highway.

Brig. Gen. Harold Floyd Nichols of 36 Lagoon Road drew applause when he asked the council "to leave things as they are."

John V. Carlson of 16 Lagoon Road said the only way to determine the effect of closing Cove Road would be a trial. "I'm in favor of a trial closing," he said.

Fire Chief L. T. Mersereau said the proposed traffic controls would not interfere with fire safety.

Councilman Edwin J. Dreschel urged residents of Cove and Lagoon roads to get together and seek a solution to the traffic problem.

Several residents contend Cove Road should be open because it is one of three road providing access from Belvedere Island to Tiburon Boulevard.

Ruddock said that if the experiment does not work, another plan can be tried.

Mill Valley Has Traffic Woes Again

An old problem popped up before the Mill Valley City Council last night — sightseeing buses and speeding traffic on Montford, Molino and Edgewood Avenues.

But traffic and the high speeds of some drivers were the chief worries of resident Terence R. Bunton, "we lose mail boxes and fences and animals and we have skid marks . . . we can't bury our heads. Otherwise we will be bury our children next."

Bunton, who lives at 407 Molino Avenue, said cars go 40 miles per hour in a 25-mile zone.

City Mgr. Bert A. Balmer said the city had received a petition for a stop sign at Edgewood and Molino and asking Grey Line buses to use State Highway 1 rather than Montford, Molino and Edgewood avenues. A copy of the petition, signed by Mrs. Bunton and 14 others, has been sent to Gray Line, Balmer said, with an answer requested.

Balmer said he asked that special patrols be set up in the area and that in the past 10 days, five speeding citations were issued. Police Chief Dan Terzich does not think a stop sign is justified, however, Balmer reported.

In March of last year the city council asked that buses, which go through Mill Valley to Muir Woods and Mount Tamalpais, use State Highway 1 and that a 25-mile speed limit be enforced in the Molino, Montford, Edgewood area.

Councilman Joseph E. Sheeks suggested the city get in touch with the Inter-City Bus Lines of Oakland, which Terzich said he believes is using the three roads.

Car Plunges Off Pier, One Drowns

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A car carrying at least three sailors plunged off the end of fog-shrouded Pier 46 early today, killing one man.

Two other sailors managed to escape the submerged auto.

The dead man, identified by military police as BM3/C Al Lawrence, about 30, was brought up by fire department skin divers.

All three were stationed aboard the cruiser USS Chicago, docked at Hunters Point Naval Shipyard here.

The two who escaped were identified as Roy Terry, 21, and Roberto Lopez, 20. They disagreed as to how many persons were in the car. Lopez said three, but Terry insisted there were five.

Corte Madera Orders Fence Around Floats

Thousands of tons of anchors, chain and submarine net floats are being moved out of the Tiburon Net Depot.

They are going as near as Sacramento, Turlock and Sierra foothill communities and as far as Philadelphia, New Orleans, Texas and Seattle.

About 150 of the 660-pound steel submarine net floats have already arrived in Corte Madera and the Town Council does not like the way they are being stored.

The council last night directed Town Mgr. Arthur H. Brandow to have "that mess" cleaned up on Paradise Drive behind the Ceccotti and Son Construction Co. offices. It is in that location that Robert Lague of Sacramento has stored the floats.

The council ruled that Lague will have to construct a fence around the steel floats to protect children playing in the area from the "precariously balanced" spheres.

The floats were bought at the first public sale of items being cleared from the net depot to make way for the Oceanographic Research Bureau of the Department of the Interior.

Two more sales will be held—one before July 22 and the other in late August, according to Cecil Layton, in charge of property disposal at the net depot.

On hand before the first sale were about 1,200 anchors ranging in weight from 3,000 to 6,000 pounds, 12,000 tons of chain, and about 4,500 floats. About one-third of these have already been moved out by barge and truck, according to Layton.

The chain and anchors are being sold to retail outlets, most of whom will sell them for their original purpose. The floats can be converted into storage tanks or used as markers and anchor floats.

All were parts of anti-submarine nets strung across the Golden Gate during World War II.

Father Tries To 'End It All' For Little Boy

SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A San Francisco man was arrested by police yesterday for firing seven bullets into the body of his 3-year-old son, who he felt was "suffering" because of a broken home.

Police said William Mendez, 40, carried the wounded boy to the home of his sister, telephoned for an ambulance, and called authorities to tell them what he had done. The youngster was taken to Peninsula Hospital, where he was reported in fair condition.

Mendez and his wife, who lives in Smith River in Del Norte County, separated seven months ago and their children, Paul, 3, and Charlene, 10, were visiting their father under a court order.

Police said the shooting occurred as Mendez was preparing the children to meet their mother, Ruth, 40. Mendez said the boy wanted to go for a walk and then complained that he did not want to return home with his mother.

"When I saw the boy suffering so much," Mendez said, "I decided to end it all for him."

LONDON (UPI)—"It was a lovely film," Princess Margaret told Britain's four singing Beatles last night after the premiere of their first picture, "A Hard Day's Night."

The critics generally agreed. And it took 500 policemen to control the 20,000 fans outside the theater. Thirty persons, mostly female, collapsed or fainted in the crush.

Board Reaffirms Stand To Keep School Site

The Tamalpais High School District board last night reaffirmed its intention to retain the Marin City High School site which it acquired from the County Housing Authority in 1958.

County Supervisor Peter H. Behr has proposed that the authority attempt to regain title to the land to resell it for light industry. He suggested that profits from the sale could be used to finance a new elementary school in Marin City.

The high school board voted last night, however, not to give up the land.

Dr. J. M. Stubblebine was elected to succeed Dr. John C. Siemens as board chairman. William B. Lewis was elected to fill Stubblebine's position as clerk, and Edward J. Thomas Jr., absent from the meeting, was elected to replace the new chairman on the County Committee on School District organization.

The board offered to Deputy County Probation Officer Lanny Berry the position of human relations consultant during the coming school year, which he will take subject to aproval of the University of California.

Berry will be attending the university's graduate school of social welfare on a scholarship, but Supt. Chester G. Carlisle assured the board that the school would permit Berry to do his field work with the Marin County Office of Human Relations and will be able to devote about 15 hours per week to the consultant position.

Carlisle informed the board that the district's three high schools will be examined for accreditation next March 22-24 by the Western Assn. of Schools and Colleges, which gave them all the maximum five-year approval in 1960.

"We would consider anything less than a five year accreditation to be a reflection on our schools," he said.

Citing the district's plans for new high schools in San Geronimo and Tiburon and the completion of the third stage of Redwood High School, Carlisle told the board that a new bond issue would be needed and he suggested the election be combined with that of trustees next April.

The board hired these seven new teachers for next year:

Mrs. Barbara Murphy, English and reading at Tamalpais High School; John B. Drocco, driver education and instruction; John J. Hayes, English at Sir Francis Drake High School; Mrs. Betty Klein, English at Tam; Mrs. Noel Mansfield, Homemaking at Tam; Darrell Parker, music, history and so-studies at Drake, and Mrs. Nancy McDermid, English at Tam.

The Tamalpais High School District Board Also:

1. Approved offering of classes in foundations of science, graphic arts and stagecraft at district high schools.

2. Renewed the district athletic travel insurance plan.

3. Asked engineer Harold Engle of San Rafael to proceed with preparation of working drawings for a swimming pool at Redwood High School.

4. Accepted notice of completion by Zoellner Construction Co. of the Mead Theater reconstruction at Tamalpais High.

5. Conveyed a small piece of district property at the end of Miller Avenue in Mill Valley to the county for transfer to Mill Valley.

Arts Palace Plan Makes Progress

SACRAMENTO (AP)—The Palace of Fine Arts, landmark of the 1915 World's Fair in San Francisco, moved closer to restoration today.

The State of California today received the deed to the Palace and Gov. Edmund G. Brown presented to representatives of the City of San Francisco a check for $1,950,000.

The money is the state's share for the restoration and refurbishing project.

The Palace of Fine Arts Historical State Park is a unit of the state park system.

Close to eight million dollars will be spent on restoring the landmark.

Buying Advertising "By The Pound"

No retailer would consider buying new merchandise for his store "by the pound." Yet many store operators are guilty of buying advertising "by the pound."

The daily newspapers in every section are struggling against a host of Johnny-come-lately shopping news sheets and other throw-aways. The "throw-aways" seek to equate their bulk distribution with the paid circulation of a legitimate newspaper.

Regardless of whether the throw-away is tossed on a lawn or delivered by the postman, it must still be classed as "unordered merchandise." Because of its low readership, any throw-away is a questionable buy for retail advertising.

Proponents of "throw-aways" as good advertising mediums are quick to point out that large retail chains have used flyers and mailers with great success. Overlooked is the fact that these well-merchandised printed pieces from well-known stores create their own readership by virtue of their consumer acceptance built up with sound advertising programs in newspapers.

On the other hand, the average "shopper" throw-away is crammed with a repulsive mixture of some of the worst retail advertising found anywhere. It has as much reader interest as the minutes of the last PTA meeting. Crammed with nothing but ads, these shopper sheets have an audience span of about two seconds, the time it takes the irate housewife to collect them off her lawn or porch. Reading them is like looking at the late late show on TV, the difference being that on TV, you at least get a little diversion in the form of an old movie if you can stand all the commercials.

Reading these throw-aways is more like watching nothing but commercials. You can imagine how long a TV station would stay in business if it were known as the nothing-but-commercials channel.

Yet, in spite of all these obvious drawbacks, the throw-away shopper, mailed or delivered, is the mainstay of many promotional efforts by shopping centers and retail merchants associations. If your store is located in a shopping center or if you are a member of your local retail merchants association, don't let them do all of your advertising thinking for you.

Re-evaluate your local newspaper regardless of how small is its paid circulation. Remember when the newsboy misses a subscriber, he gets a complaint, right now. The newspaper reader doesn't want to miss the local news, the report on last night's ball game at the local high school, the corny "funnies" and the cross-word puzzle, plus all the other features that he pays his money for.

A good rule of thumb to use in comparing paid circulation with free distribution is to discount figures supplied by the throw-aways at least 75%. In other words, 10,000 paid circulation gives your advertising a readership equal to 40,000 throw-aways.

Before you complain about the effectiveness of your advertising in the small paid circulation newspaper, examine your ads critically. If they're not selling merchandise and bringing in new customers, don't blame the newspaper. It is simply acting as a message delivery system. If your "message" is garbled, poorly timed, or unbelievable, the newspaper can't help you.

As a matter of fact, nothing can help your advertising if it's not properly planned and merchandised. This is true, regardless of which advertising medium you select, paid circulation newspapers, throw-aways, radio, T.V., direct mail, or sandwich boards.

But, as a retail merchant, if your choice is confined to a little daily newspaper or a big, fat shopper throw-away, don't buy space "by the pound." Examine the facts. You'll get more for your advertising dollar if your message is delivered along with news and features for which the reader is willing to pay. — Will J. Lavelle

Tiburon Council Approves Basic Outline For Strong City Manager

Tiburon city councilmen last night approved a basic outline which would set up a "strong" city manager post for the new city.

Beginning salary for the top appointive official will be $900 monthly, but councilmen indicated they might be willing to go a bit higher.

As councilmen decided on salary and duties, the first applicant for the post sat patiently through the four-hour meeting, taking a long look at the council. Councilmen already have interviewed him in executive session.

The council voted 4-1 to approve the outline of a city manager ordinance which will be drawn up in its legal form and later submitted for passage.

Meanwhile interim City Mgr. Warren Schmid will use the council discussions as a basis for screening the approximately 15 persons who are in the running for the post.

The split council vote came when Councilman Leo Souza voted not to approve the ordinance outline. Souza, during the council's item-by-item talk on the proposed ordinance, said he would prefer to have a specific starting salary advertised, rather than indicating the council might go higher.

Souza said he disagreed with the proposed ordinance provision that the city manager could not be fired, except for "malfeasance or nonfeasance," within 90 days following a council election, saying councilmen might run on a fire-the-manager platform and be thwarted when elected.

Schmid pointed out that under the proposed ordinance, the council could suspend the manager, though it would have to continue paying him. The 90-day clause is meant as a "cooling off" period, Schmid said.

Souza also said he would prefer written into the ordinance a provision for manager consultation with the council before he would fire any major city employee, such as a police chief.

Under the proposed outline, the manager "shall appoint, remove, promote, demote and discipline all officers and employees of the city except the city attorney and city treasurer."

Appeal from the city manager decision will be outlined in a personnel ordinance.

Necessity for consultation with the council before the manager could act "might be a hint to a department head that he should be friendly with the council," said Mayor Gordon W. Strawbridge.

"It's a very strong ordinance; it sets up a very strong city manager," noted Councilman Fred C. Hannahs.

Other provisions of the proposed ordinance, still to come before the council in its final form, would make it mandatory for the council to give 30-day notice to the manager before firing him. The manager could request a hearing on the council's action, but the city still would not have to set out publicly its reasons for firing.

The ordinance would make it mandatory for the city manager to deal with the council as a group. "No individual councilman shall give orders or instructions to the city manager," it provides.

Councilmen would be required to deal with subordinate city officials through the city manager.

The Tiburon City Council also:

1. Set for hearing at next Monday's meeting Milton McDonough's request to realign and extend a pier at 21 Main Street without filing a master plan.

2. Also set for hearing next Monday John Kaufman's request to split a lot at 1761 Mar West Street into two lots that would have sub-standard front and rear yards.

3. Continued indefinitely granting a city franchise to Pacific Gas and Electric Co. Councilman John S. Hoffmire Jr. and City Atty. Peter Allen Smith reported they had discussed the franchise with PG&E officials.

The two planning matters were referred to the council by the county board of supervisors. The county planning commission approved both before creation of Tiburon's own planning commission.

Sainthood Voted For 22 Africans

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican's Congregation of Rites voted sainthood today for 22 African Negroes who were slain in Uganda in the 19th century for refusing to renounce their Roman Catholic faith. They are expected to be formally canonized in a church ceremony here Oct. 18.

The 22 were beatified, or declared "blessed," in June 1920.

The formal canonization ceremony in St. Peter's will be attended by Pope Paul VI and more than 2,000 prelates from around the world. The prelates will be in Rome for the Vatican Ecumenical Council, which resumes Sept. 14.

THE WONDERFUL SUNSET BOOKS

Chances are you collect them and would like to know that the Big E Marin has them all—that is, a practically inexhaustible supply of every Sunset Book published, on practically every subject that has to do with the West and western living (not to mention a full set of books for world travelers, one for each country). What a gamut they run! "Earthquake Country," for instance, by Robert Iacopi with foreword by Dr. Charles Richter, reveals how, why and where earthquakes strike in California. There are books on gardening, building, decorating, camping, cooking of every imaginable kind, party planning, etc., etc., etc. The list is long, the range wide, but all Sunset Books have these things in common: they're vastly informative, handsomely illustrated and truly economical.

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

It Is Still Too Early To Tell Impact Of Emporium On County

Is it my imagination, or are the shops along Fourth Street a little quieter these days?

Most downtown San Rafael store owners won't admit that the opening of the Emporium in Northgate has made any great difference. Others suggest that maybe things are not exactly what they might be, but after all it's vacation time—and what can you exject? A few have taken off on their own vacations and are conveniently out of range of embarrassing inquiries.

Nevertheless, one woman shopper last Friday morning admitted the Emporium might have everything, but she still liked to wander along Fourth from portal to portal comparing prices and merchandise.

As for the Emporium itself, store manager Herbert Brandt said the first week after opening was far beyond expectations but —they could still do with more business. Emporium-Capwell general manager Robert Wilhelm said the Northgate stores first week measured up favorably to opening weeks at other branches.

The upshot of it all is that it's probably too soon to tell much of anything. The first good test may come about the time the kids go back to school. The next, during the holiday shopping season—and the showdown when other Northgate stores open up around the Emporium next spring.

AND SPEAKING of the Emporium, it seems to me Mozart Kaufman might get an eye-catching impact by putting up a big "K" near the upper left corner of the exterior wall of his San Anselmo store that faces on the new downtown look along Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

D'ALDEN'S SHOE STORE, San Rafael, has had to expand upward, and Don Alden is one of the Fourth Street merchants who claims business has not been affected. He's put in a balcony, allowing space to stock about 1,500 more shoes, and has had to take an office upstairs in the Masonic Building for an NCR computer to handle billing.

IF YOU GET DOWN to Main Street, Tiburon, there's one store window that should attract your attention. Westerley Tea and Spice House has a peep show viewing of the new topless bathing suit—created by Penny West, daughter of shop owner Mrs. Mary Priscilla West.

No, they don't sell bathing suits here—mostly coffee.

HOWEVER Marin County's taxable retail sales get distributed, the total seems to come out most encouragingly. During the first quarter of 1964 we had the highest percentage jump among the nine Bay Area counties. Something like 15.5 per cent. Solano County was second with 15.3. San Francisco was lowest with 5.2.

TAFT TRAVEL, San Rafael, announces two tours coming up this year—both to be conducted by Marin County travel experts.

Many Issues Below Their Best Levels

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market closed higher today but many issues were below their best levels of the day.

Steels led a midafternoon rally that attracted support in other groups. Profit-taking developed near the close and portions of the gains were wiped out.

Volume was estimated at 5.4 million shares, compared with 5.07 million yesterday.

U.S. Steel traded up a fraction on a block of 30,000 shares and then widened its gain to nearly a point.

Bethlehem, Jones and Laughlin, Youngstown Sheet and Lukens advanced a point or more.

American Telephone, matching its all-time high of 75 reached Monday, appeared likely to top the most-active list.

Gains of around a point or more were registered by Celanese, Grant, Mack Truck and Peoples Gas.

Most tobaccos advanced with Lorillard up almost a point.

Losers of a point included International Harvester, Polaroid, U.S. Smelting and Control Data. IBM advanced 3 points and Xerox 2.

Prices were mixed in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate bonds were higher; governments were mostly unchanged.

All-Time High In Funds Scored By Savings Firm

The assets of Marin County Savings and Loan Assn., San Rafael, rose to an all-time high at the close of the first half of 1964, it was reported today.

Fred F. Enemark, executive vice president and manager, said total assets on June 30 were $43,018,537.22. Ten years ago, he said, they were $2,296,695.62. Savings were reported to have increased 20.45 per cent from $26,500,000 on June 30, 1963, to $31,900,000 on June 30, 1964. During the same period the number of new accounts opened increased by 30 per cent and the total loan portfolio increased by 21 per cent.

Marin County Savings and Loan will celebrate its 78th birthday this month. It is the oldest savings and loan association in Marin County.

Redwood Bank Gains Reported

Redwood National Bank, San Rafael, showed an increase of more than 80 per cent in deposits on June 10, 1964, over a year ago, reported Byron W. Leydecker, president.

He said the bank now has $13,600,000 in deposits, compared to $8,900,000 on June 30, 1963.

Redwood recently opened its second bank in Napa.

IN PORT ALL THIS MONTH

This three-masted ship "Soo Loo" first sailed into San Francisco Bay in 1886. Last week, 78 years later, along with a fleet of seven other historical models from the San Francisco Maritime Museum, she made port at San Rafael Savings and Loan Assn., where Harold Elber, president of the company, has arranged for them to be on display for all of July, San Rafael Federal's 12th month in business.

Finding Work This Summer Is Tougher

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Finding a job is tougher this summer.

That's so despite a gain in the number of jobs. A record of nearly 72 million Americans are at work.

The job scramble is rough because there are more students looking for them. There are always a lot when school lets out. This year there are more.

But beyond that, there are more adults entering the labor force just now. This happens whenever times are good and the number of jobs expands. That pulls a lot of off-and-on workers into the labor force. Since they usually have skills from earlier periods of employment, they are likely to get the jobs at the expense of the newcomers without experience.

The population growth by itself, and its specific manifestation of more students looking for summer work, would have pulled about 1.2 million more people into the labor force this summer than last. The Labor Department says that this time the force increased by 1.5 million over last year to a total of 79.4 million.

It reports that while employment went up by about 850,000 in June as outdoor jobs and recreational work opened up, unemployment advanced by 1.1 million.

The economy is running fast, but not fast enough in the job sector to hold even with the demand.

Some 800,000 of the unemployed are teen-agers, or 15 per cent of the youngsters looking for work.

The Labor Department indicates that high school graduates had better luck this year in finding jobs than did college graduates.

Disturbing to the department was the rise in unemployment among adult men. The teen-age problem was expected. Washington had hoped that the older men were in for better days.

The rate of unemployment among all men over 20 rose to 4 per cent of the labor force, compared with 3.6 per cent in May. The rise among adult women was only to 5.1 per cent from 5 per cent.

When the rate of unemployment for all ages dropped in May to 5.1 per cent, many had hoped that the long struggle to bring this down by an increase in economic growth was at last bearing fruit. In June the rate was 5.3 per cent. The June rise in unemployment of 1.1 million brought the total to 4.7 million.

The long struggle to get the jobless rate down to around 4 per cent of the labor force still is a tough one. The number of jobs increase. But those who want to fill them increase even faster.

Time For Caution Is Seen

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Alexander Hamilton Institute says "the present appears to be a time for caution in making new commitments or retaining stocks that are not reporting progressive earnings."

AUTO CONTRACT

Reynolds and Co. notes that the recent performance of the market came in the face of crucial auto contract negotiations, the southeast Asia crisis and the long holiday weekend.

"This, combined with the strong fundamental and technical background," Reynolds says, "leads us to believe that we are entering into a dynamic phase of the bull market which could see well chosen issues selling considerably higher by the end of the summer."

HEADY ATMOSPHERE

Shearson, Hammill and Co. cautions investors against "getting swept along by the current heady atmosphere" of the stock market.

"In our opinion," the brokerage house says, "it would be a mistake to assume that a runaway bull market will occur and carry basically unattractive issues to unwarranted levels."

RISING TREND

International Statistical Bureau, Inc., says that "since we expect the market to tend higher, the problem now is one of selection."

It adds that "while the leaders will still provide profit opportunities, the secondaries and even some speculative issues will begin to participate in the rising trend."

Dividend Declared

ST. PAUL, Minn.—The board of directors of Western Air Lines, today declared its 53rd consecutive regular quarterly cash dividend of 15 cents per share, payable Aug. 3 to shareholders of record at close of business on July 20. The company's stock was split, three-for-one, on May 4.

Great Debate On Mays Vs. Mantle Gains Momentum

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball's Great Debate may be in for a long, hot summer run if New York's magnificent cripple stays as healthy as his current batting average.

The Mickey Mantle-Willie Mays squabble, a pick-'em tavern talk-athon for more than 10 years, has been showing signs of wear—as have Mantle's tender legs—in the past few seasons.

But Mickey, virtually counted out after missing 97 games in 1963, is again convincing people —particularly American League pitchers—while Willie has cooled considerably after a torrid 1964 getaway.

Mantle vaulted into the thick of the A.L. batting race last week with an eight-game clip of .406. The Yankee star had 13 hits in 32 official at-bats, lifting his season mark to .332, four points behind Minnesota's Bob Allison, whose league lead dipped from 10 points to one over rookie teammate Tony Oliva. Third place Mantle was fifth, ot .319, last week.

Mays held his runner-up position in the National League race while Billy Williams of Chicago, last week's leader, and Pittsburgh's Roberto Clemente, third a week ago, swapped places. Mays' average, however, fell eight points to .339 as the San Francisco slugger went 5-for-21 in seven games.

Clemente dropped from .348 to .345 while Williams tumbled 16 points, to .330, after a 3-for-22 week.

The Mantle-Mays figures aren't far apart in home runs and runs batted in. Mays has 23 homers and 55 RBI, both league-leading totals, in 77 games. Mantle has 17 homers and 54 RBI in 19 fewer contests.

Each hit .314 a year ago, but Willie poled 38 home runs to 15 for Mantle, who suffered a series of injuries, including a broken foot, and played in only 65 games.

Harmon Killebrew of the Twins appears a shoo-in for 1964 slugging honors. Killebrew hit three homers last week for a total of 30 in 76 games, just off Roger Maris' record pace of 1961. The Killer has driven in 64 runs, three more than Dick Stuart of Boston, for the majors' top production mark.

A Great Week For Marin Pro Hurler

Ron Cole of Mill Valley had a great week with Modesto of the California League, according to latest reports from Player Periscope of Novato.

He pitched in two games, went all the way in both, and picked up two victories to run his season record to 8-4. In earning his two latest victories, Cole, the former star at College of Marin, allowed 11 hits and 4 walks and struck out 15.

In 91 innings on the mound this year, Cole has allowed 75 hits and 35 bases on balls and has whiffed 80. His earned run average is a creditable 3.07. Ron was signed with the Houston Colts organization by scout Joe Anselmo of San Rafael.

JOHN BOCCABELLA, the San Anselmo slugger who had a brief stint last season with the Chicago Cubs and who was sent to Salt Lake City of the Pacific Coast League this year for seasoning, batted .290 in the last reported week from Player Periscope.

Boc had 4 doubles and 5 singles in 31 at bats, driving in 4 runs and scoring 3 himself. The very promising first baseman boosted his batting mark 5 points to .247 for the season. Included in his 69 hits for the season are 15 home runs, 6 triples and 11 doubles. He has knocked in 45 runs and has scored 41.

GERRY ARD of Fairfax, bonus rookie in the Houston chain, another signee by Anselmo, chopped 3 points off his average for Modesto when he had 6 hits in 28 at bats for the week. He had one double, 3 RBI's ad 3 runs scored.

For the season, the shortstop has 58 hits in 239 at bats for a .243 mark. His hits include two triples and six doubles. He has 25 runs batted in, 29 runs scored.

KEN ANDERSON of San Rafael, outfielder for Greenville, S.C., of the Western Carolina loop, had only 2 hits in 11 trips to the plate in the last reported week as his average dropped 3 points to .233.

He has 40 hits in 172 at bats, has 12 runs batted in and has scored 15 runs. His only extra base hits are four doubles. Greenville is a farm club for the Milwaukee Braves.

Giant Fans Warned: Don't Count To Much On An El Foldo By Phils

Jack Hanley

Philadelphia's lead of 1½ games over the Giants is being downgraded by over-enthusiastic Giant fans who point to records of the two clubs against second division competition for support of an argument that goes something like this:

The Phillies will begin to fade when they start playing somebody other than the Mets, Colts and Cubs.

It's true that the Phillies have manhandled the Mets (9-2) and clobbered the Colts (7-2) and Cubs (8-4) while the Giants are just two over .500 in 20 games against the same clubs, 6-5 against the Mets, 2-1 against the Cubs and 3-3 with the Colts.

And it's also true that pennants usually are won by the team that treats second division competition mercilessly while managing to get a standoff against the front line teams.

But it doesn't necessarily follow that the Phillies won't be able to hold their own during the second half of the season against the first division clubs. In fact, just the opposite would seem to be indicater by the first half record, with one exception.

THE EXCEPTION for the Phillies is St. Louis whose Cardinals beat Philadelphia 6-3 in nine games before the All-Star break. All other teams have been beaten by the Phillies, again with one exception—the Giants who hold a slim 5-4 edge on the league leaders after losing three in a row to them in Candlestick last weekend.

THERE IS more wishful thinking than fact in the argument that the Phillies will begin to fade during the second half of the race. They have the pitching and hitting to go all the way. And what has been overlooked by some wishful thinkers is the fact the Phillies won the majority of their first half games on the road and now have 14 more home games during the second half than the Giants.

THE PHILLIES finished the first half 25-17 on the road, 22-11 at home. The Giants were 19-12 on the road, 28-19 at home. Nobody will dispute that a team has both a psychological and practical edge on its home lot.

However, nobody will dispute either that pennants can't be won on paper. And at this stage of the race, with three months to go, there is no assurance that the Dodgers won't pop out of the pack and win it again.

On Junpe 28 after being beaten four in a row at Candlestick by the Giants, the Dodgers sank to ninth position, five games under .500 at 33.38 and 11 games off the pace. Now, the defending champs are 38-39, 10 games to the rear but not so far back in fifth place.

UMPIRES, N.L. AGREE; STRIKE CALLED OFF

NEW YORK (AP)—The National League umpires, who on May 26 threatened to strike, reached a verbal agreement with the league's executive council yesterday providing for an increase in their pension fund.

John Reynolds, attorney for the Association of National Baseball League Umpires, said after a three-hour meeting that "we have reached a verbal agreement on an increase in the pension fund which I will present to our association and Mr. Giles (Warren Giles, president of the N.L.) will present to the National League at its summer meeting in Chicago."

The meeting is tentatively scheduled for Aug. 10.

The meeting is tentatively scheduled for Aug. 10.

No details of the agreement were announced.

At present, the pension plan for umpires retiring at 55 calls for $200 a year for each year of service. At a meeting in Chicago last May the umpires voted against an offer from the league to increase this to $250. They asked for a boost to $300 and threatened "appropriate action by July 3" if this was not granted. Later they agreed to postpone any action pending the meeting here on the eve of the All-Star game.

FRIENDLY MEETING

"I feel the umpires' association will approve the verbal agreement," Reynolds said. "We met for three hours in a very friendly atmosphere conducive to good relations. Mr. Giles and the executive council were very reasonable."

Present at the meeting in addition of Giles and Reynolds were Thomas Rogan, an insurance consultant associated with Reynolds, and executive council member Bill DeWitt of Cincinnati, John McHale of Milwaukee and John Holland of the Chicago Cubs.

Five N.L. umpires were on hand as observers. They were Stan Landes, president of the umpires association, Al Barlick, Augie Donatelli, Tom Gorman and Shag Crawford.

American League umpires are not organized like those in the N.L. The A.L. umps had a pension plan calling for $150 a man per year of service until last spring when this was increased to $250.

Nicklaus 7-2 Choice In British Open; Champagne Tony Lema Gets A Break

By HENRY W. THORNBERRY

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (UPI)—Jack Nicklaus remained the betting favorite to capture the British Open Golf Championship today although he just had a passing acquaintance with the famed old St. Andrews course.

Nicklaus himself admitted that his late arrival here would work against him in the tournament which starts tomorrow, but he didn't regret the fact that he had stayed over in the United States to pick up the $24,000 first prize for winning the Whitemarsh Open at Philadelphia last weekend.

"It would be great to win because this is one of the world's great tournaments," said Nicklaus, the 7-2 favorite. "But I'm a little handicapped by having to arrive so late. Well, we'll just have to find out what it takes to beat this great course."

Nicklaus arrived yesterday with Gary Player, Tony Lema of San Leandro, Calif., Doug Sanders and Doug Ford and immediately took a good look at the St. Andrews course, which he will be playing for the first time.

SOMETHING SPECIAL

"They tell me there's something special about this place," Nicklaus said. "One thing I noticed is that the crowd certainly knows its golf. There's a definite contemptuous grunt when you play a bad shot but they're quick to applaud a good one."

There hasn't been much rainfall here lately, and Nicklaus, for one, hopes the sun continues to shine.

"These fairways are rock hard now and I should get up to 50 yards farther than usual with a small ball," he said. "If I can get the hang of the greens, I'll be happy."

Nicklaus said he chose to use the slightly smaller British golf ball, rather than the U. S. regulation ball, because "I figure I get 25 yards more with it here."

Eight Americans in all are entered for the British Open on the 6,926-yard, par-72 layout. The others besides Nicklaus, Lema, Sanders and Ford are Phil Rogers, Johnny Bulla of Phoenix, Ariz., Bill Johnston of Phoenix, Ariz., and amateur Deane Beman of Bethesda, Md.

Single rounds will be played tomorrow and Thursday with the top 40 qualifying for the final two rounds on Friday.

LEMA IMPRESSED

Lema, who won three tournaments during the month of June, also was impressed with the historic St. Andrews course.

"It's a very interesting course but you've got no chance if you get in some of these traps," he said. "From what I've seen so far it's one of the toughest I've ever played on."

Lema said he had been warned that the big danger was wind changes which "can be troublesome, but I'm tempted to stay with the big ball."

Lema said he wasn't worried by his late arrival here which allowed so little time for practice before tomorrow's opening round.

"I'm not really concerned by my arrival at the 11th hour," champagne Tony said. "We do it all the time in the States."

Lema got a big break when he secured the services of Tip Anderson, Britain's top caddy, who worked for Arnold Palmer in all his Open appearances. Nicklaus had hoped to get Anderson himself, but Henry Timbrook Jr., an amateur from Beverly Hills, Calif., who was here recently for the British Amateur, booked Anderson's services for Lema several weeks ago.

OAKLAND (AP) — Two former University of Southern California football players, Bob Levingston and Loran Hunt, have signed with the Oakland Raiders, Coach and General Manager Al Davis announced today.

The two will report to the Raiders' Santa Rosa training camp on July 17, each seeking a berth in the defensive secondary.

Each is six feet tall and weighs 190.

Levingston, a 1961 graduate, has played minor league baseball the past two seasons. Hunt lettered three years at USC, graduating in 1964.

ALL-STAR GAME NOTES:

Shea Stadium Has Provided Thrills In Its Short Life

By HAL BOCK

NEW YORK (AP)—Shea Stadium, hosting the 35th All-Star game, has had plenty of excitement in the 10 weeks since its dedication.

Jim Bunning pitched a perfect game there just two weeks ago. It was the scene in May of the longest single game in baseball history—7 hours 23 minutes. And it has had the largest crowd of the season—57,037.

A CROWD of between 45,000 and 50,000 was expected for today's game, which raised the interesting question of whether baseball 's 50 best players could outdraw its 25 worst—the New York Mets. The Mets, who call Shea home, have topped the 50,000 figure four times this season.

MET FANS had two of their own to cheer for. Ron Hunt was the NL's starting second baseman and Casey Stengel directed traffic at first base for Manager Walt Alston's club.

The fans posed one problem for Alston, though. "What if," the Dodger manager theorized yesterday, "the score is tied, the bases are loaded and two out with Hunt up? Would the fans let me pinch hit with Hank Aaron?"

THREE PLAYERS who weren't named All-Stars were in town as members of the Executive Committee of the Major League Baseball Players Assn. to discuss the agenda of the association's October meeting with the presidents of the two leagues.

Bob Friend of Pittsburgh, Harvey Kuenn of San Francisco and Lee Walls of the Dodgers were the non-All-Stars who joined with committee members Bunning, St. Louis' Ken Boyer and Minnesota's Bob Allison to discuss the agenda with Warren Giles and Joe Cronin.

Scheduling spring training activities and pay television were among the areas discussed.

IT WAS a rough weekend for All-Star pitchers. Of the National League staff, Dick Ellsworth, Juan Marichal and Dick Farrell all lost Sunday. America Leaguers Whitey Ford, Jack Kralick and Camillo Pasqual also were defeated in their last appearances before the mid-season break.

IT WAS the sixth All-Star game to be played in New York and the first to run as an adjunct to a World's Fair since the Yankees hosted the 1939 classic. The first game, played in 1933, was held in Chicago in conjunction with that city's World's Fair.

Giants Face Cubs In Double Bill Tomorrow

While most of the major league teams are resting tomorrow in the All-Star break, the San Francisco Giants will be battling the Chicago Cubs in a doubleheader at Wrigley Field, Chicago.

The games will be make-up contests for two earlier scheduled games that were rained out in Chicago on April 28 and 30. Bob Hendley (8-4) and Ron Herbel (6-4) were the starting pitchers picked by manager Alvin Dark of the Giants.

The only other National League action scheduled tomorrow is St. Louis at Philadelphia and Cincinnati at Pittsburgh, both night games. The Giants-Cubs twin bill will be a day affair in the Cubs' lightless park.

There are no games scheduled tomorrow in the American League.

Cardinals Sell Long To Chisox

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals sold reserve outfielder-first baseman Jeoff Long to the Chicago White Sox today for an undisclosed amount.

At the same time, the Cards recalled outfielder Mike Shannon from Jacksonville of the International League.

Shannon, 25, is batting .295 for Jacksonville, with 10 home runs and 31 runs batted in.

Long, 22, has a .233 batting average.

Limits Galore For Salmon Seekers, But Bass Anglers Are Disappointed

STEVENS

Lucky are the lads who went to sea in ships after salmon the past few days. Lucky are the canners who process the fish, and unlucky are the smokers who fell to the allure of impaled anchovies. Smokers? Yeah, verily, hardly a shaker amongst the lot, and there are a lot. Sid McMullin of Caruso's Sausalito place reported limits or very nearly limits for everyone, and all large specimens. Micky Geraldi, skipper of Fishermen's Grotto No. 9, landed a beautiful 45-pounder on Saturday. That was the same day Jerry Jennings, aboard the boat Zatta, won himself a Schenley award by boating a chinook weighing 35 pounds, 4 ounces. According to McMullin, he has the chore of carting hundreds of pounds of fresh salmon to the canners as a result of the recent activity.

The blue Pacific has been generous to the deep sea anglers, also. Limits and near limits of assorted rockfish with a fairish number of lings have been coming in at Santa Cruz and Monterey, but not too hot for salmon trolling.

REGARDING BAIT fishing for stripers in the upper San Pablo, the lads who have hoped for action out of China Camp and Joe's Launching at Santa Venetia have been disappointed. Practically no fish have been caught—I mean, of course, striped bass. I was informed that a couple of light-tackle addicts have had sport hooking and landing the many smelt now infestitng the San Pablo Bay on the Marin side.

ONE FELLOW made the claim that on the lightest of tackles (I think he used a number 10 egg hook on a two-pound-test leader) a jack smelt (horse smelt), when hooked a foot or two below the surface, puts up a battle that will rival that of a trout. This chap called me to ask if the worms he found under the skin of the smelt made the flesh unfit to eat. Some smelt do have these worms, true, but they do no more harm to the rest of the flesh than would a worm in an apple.

TROLLING FOR stripers is another thing. Still catching fish, and some mighty nice ones in the late evening trolling on the Contra Costa side of the bay. Also some fair to good results have been had trolling in the Sister's area. Sid McMullin told of two anglers out of Caruso's Harbor landing five bass from 16 to 20 pounds. Seems the pair tried various lures until they happened onto Redhead bug-eye jigs.

LOU LAGRONE of Dillon's Point on the Carquinez Strait reported plug-casting from shore has been at least fair for the majority and good for some. He suggested hitting the shore at his place very early in the morning all this week. "Tides will be just right, Ralph," he said.

NO EXCITING reports of surf casting at the beaches but large schools of large bass have been seen off the various piers in San Francisco.

Cruise Boat Trips Around, Outside Gate Scheduled

On the basis of successful cruises last week, Cruise with the Lewis Family will conduct special sunset cruises out of Sausalito each Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday through September.

Boats will leave the Lewis landing on the Sausalito sandspit at 7 p.m., travel through Racoon Straits, around Angel Island, to Alcatraz, past the San Francisco Marina and Presidio, and two miles out past Golden Gate Bridge to Mile Rock. The boat will return along the Marin coastline to Sausalito.

Russell Lewis of Tiburon is skipper of the boat. He said it is the only sightseeing boat in Northern California that has license to go into the Pacific Ocean. Cruises are one hour, 45 minutes, and persons going should wear warm clothing, Lewis warned.

Pitch Is Made For Dodge Police Cars

When it comes to police cars, San Rafael City Councilman Harry A. Barbier is a Dodge man.

More specifically, he's a California Highway Patrol-specification Dodge man.

Barbier, long a critic of the cost of maintaining the city's over-age Ford police cars, last night presented figures prepared by City Clerk W. L. Morgan which showed the four such cars are averaging, respectively, $163, $165.19, $123.11 and $89.70 in monthly upkeep.

He moved the four be replaced with Dodges built to CHP specifications, to be purchased through the state, and that an additional police car authorized in the 1964-65 budget also be a CHP-type Dodge.

He urged they be bought now because July 15 is the "cutoff date" for purchases of 1964 models through the highway patrol. The 1965 models will be out in October, but City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen said the four old Fords (which have from 90,000 to 106,000 miles) will be unsafe to run until then.

Councilmen Fred E. Jensen and Louis H. Baar said Barbier's figures didn't prove anything because the city's two CHP Dodges haven't been run long enough to compare. Also, Jensen urged local dealers be given a chance to meet the state specifications and price.

The vote found Barbier and Councilman Charles W. Aby in favor of scrapping the Fords and buying Dodges now; Jensen and Baar, opposed.

Mayor John F. McInnis cast the deciding "no," then invited a motion that the two cars costing over $160 a month to maintain be replaced immediately with the Dodges.

Aby moved that, and it passed unanimously.

Said Barbier (now known also as Chrysler Barbier): "Half a loaf is better than none."

Council Gets Moratorium Plans For Bay

The San Rafael City Council last night received two documents intended to help put into effect a partial three-year moratorium on further filling of San Francisco Bay and retain control of such filling in the hands of cities and counties.

One is an agreement for a moratorium on filling of publicly owned tidelands. The other is an ordinance providing city control of fill of privately owned tidelands and designating the Assn. of Bay Area Governments as arbiter in the event of appeals.

Both were prepared by ABAG. Mayor John F. McInnis said they had been sent to city attorneys and county counsels throughout the Bay Area for review—"I'm not asking you to pass them tonight."

He said they resulted from two years of work by ABAG and are "preliminary to what we hope will be measures to retain control of our own tidelands instead of having it taken over by the state."

City Atty. David Menary Jr. said he found no fault with the form of the documents but the substance is something else again.

"If an ordinance or law is ever passed banning outright the filling of the bay, I think the Supreme Court of the United States will have to decide it," said Menary.

He questioned whether the three-year moratorium is "a reasonable period of time."

McInnis said three years had been chosen because the State Legislature had talked in terms of an absolute ban on bay filling for that period. He said the concensus is that it will take five or six years to make a thorough study of the bay to lay down guidelines for fill restrictions.

Encroachment Passes —If Chief Approves

The San Rafael City Council, which sometimes gets outraged about encroachments on city streets, proved willing last night to allow a 14-foot one—if the fire chief doesn't object.

George Steinert applied for permission to construct curb and gutter along the edge of the present paving for a 379-foot strip of Francisco Boulevard running east from Bellam Boulevard. This would mean encroaching 14 feet onto the city's property, which includes a 40-foot street width plus six feet for sidewalk.

Steinert wants to pave the 14-foot strip as part of a car wash.

Public Works Director Norris M. Rawles said he had no objection.

City Engineer Dominic Selmi drew a map showing that the 40-foot street width ends at the edge of Steinert's property, with the street narrowing to 32 feet east of that.

Councilman Louis H. Baar noted that the No. 4 firehouse will be half a block away, and suggested the 40-foot width may be needed for maneuvering fire engines.

Mayor John F. McInnis suggested the encroachment be granted subject to approval by Fire Chief Vance Trivett. Baar so moved, Councilman Fred E. Jensen seconded the motion, and it passed unanimously.

Lights, Voices Bother Tennis Club Neighbors

Some residents living near the Belvedere Tennis Club in Tiburon are planning to protest to city and county against the club's lighted courts and public address system.

The new lighting system, turned on June 24, is shining into some homes and is a potential traffic hazard to the drivers on the Tiburon Highway, charged Geoffrey Jones, president of the Hawthorne Terrace Property Owners Assn. Club neighbors also are complaining of the noise of the public address system, he said.

Two Candidates Proposed As Successor For Conti

Two residents of the area north of Puerto Suello Hill were proposed last night as possible successor to Orlando Conti on the San Rafael Planning Commission.

The city council accepted Conti's resignation, which was submitted by letter June 22.

Mayor John F. McInnis then said he had received letters and telephone calls in behalf of two candidates: Robert F. Loberg of 392 Devon Drive, who was a leader in the fight against 1,186 units of cluster apartment development on Quail Hill, and V. Judson Klein of 4 Arcangel Way.

"I think it's very much in order" to appoint someone from north of the hill, said the mayor.

The council held up the appointment until its July 20 meeting. Loberg and Klein were both present.

MINK PULLOVERS?

Fur, Fur—Going Everywhere

FUR GOES EVERYWHERE this season . . . on cuffs, collars, hems and is even fitted as a lining for jackets and coats. Donald Brooks create this furry silhouette for the fall-winter collection of Coopchik-Forrest, done in a black Russian broadtail and lined in white mink. The enveloping floor-length cape has a stovepipe collar and a detachable black satin bow at the neckline closing. (UPI Telephoto)

By GAY PAULEY
UP Women's Editor

NEW YORK—Look what they're doing with fur these days.

There are floor length leopard coats for evening, sleeveless white mink pullovers or jackets for at-home trousers, fur dresses, fur jumpers, fur scarves, fur shirts, fur sweaters, floor length fur capes, fur linings for suit jackets, coats and shawls, and fur borders making even more opulent the rich brocades and satins of the new season's feminine apparel.

TO GO with the multitude of uses for furs are the addition of skins a woman never would have thought would one day compete with mink. Sable, ermine, and chincilla are there of course.

But the list for fall 1964, as shown last night by the Fur Information and Fashion Council, Inc., included Australian opossum, buffalo, calf, deer, fitch, guanaco (relative of the llama), Indian lamb, jaguar, hare kangaroo, ocelot, raccoon, tiger and zebra.

The Council listed such "newcomers" as unplucked nutria, Mongolian lamb, Japanese Marten and Himalayan fox.

And on the comeback trail—Persian lamb. These sturdy fur, which has been in the background for several seasons, gets a strong boost for fall and winter from Leo Ritter, one of the pace-setting designers of the industry. among the organizations or individual resigners participating in a fortnight of fall and winter previews for out-of-town fashion reporters. This, the second week running through Friday, is sponsored by the New York couture group and its auxiliary members.

THE COUNCIL, representing the bulk of the New York industry, said that stylings varied. Coats were curved, roomy at the top, arched through the shoulders and ending with a taper; the tent, figure moulding to the waistline and flared from there downward and outward; the wrapped, adjustable to how the wearer wants it around her; the asymmetrical, or off center closing; and the slim and skinny shape.

Good Grooming Tips For Your Summer Cottons

Ladies, be careful. Many cotton fashions this summer have the popular leather trim. But the National Institute of Drycleaning warns that what appears to be leather is sometimes plastic. And this can make a difference to the drycleaner. But then the cleaner has to be sure the fabric itself can be wetcleaned. Institute members have received a technical bulletin advising how to handle this tricky summer fashion.

The Institute offers this tip for you to keep in mind when shopping. Get a guarantee that the suede or leather trim is drycleanable. And make sure you know whether the trim is real or imitation leather. This information will help you to help the drycleaner.

OLD FASHIONED CELEBRATION

Many came by boat and tied up at the yacht harbor at the Peacock Gap Tennis and Swimming Club when the old fashioned celebration was held on the Fourth of July. Among those attending were the Miller McNears of San Rafael on their boat, the Koala. The McNear family formerly owned the whole of Peacock Gap and this was an annual celebration with them —this year revived in their honor. Aboard the Koala are, from left, Mrs. Miller McNear, Brad McNear and Lawrence McNear.

WORLD FIRST LADIES

She Never Underestimates Alec

Sixth in a series of seven articles on world women wed to power — first ladies of other countries who are seldom seen or read about by Americans or their own people.

By MILTON MARMOR

LONDON (AP)—Life has become more hectic for Lady Douglas-Home since her husband became Prime Minister of Britain. Many things have changed.

For one thing, she gets up 15 minutes earlier every morning. But she still doesn't have time to cook porridge for Sir Alec as she did in the past. She has a cook for the first time. She still doesn't have a maid.

Lady Douglas-Home was born 54 years ago the daughter of the Very Rev. Cyril Argentine Alington, who was headmaster at Eton. One of the boys became her husband but she can't remember him as a schoolboy.

LADY ELIZABETH is tall, stately and country-looking. Her keen sense of humor, her discreet good taste in dress and her charming blend of shyness and spontaneous friendliness serve well to make her one of London's most elegant hostesses.

She's also very proud of her husband. When he moved up from foreign secretary to Prime Minister last October she said that "anyone who underestimates him does so at his own peril."

SOMETIME LATER she said to a friend: "He has done rather well, don't you think?"

Eight years before, in 1955, when he came out of political obscurity to take the office of Commonwealth relations secretary, she said: "Lord Home (as he was then) is fit for any post in the government, even Prime Minister."

SHE TOURS THE COUNTRY with her husband, taking notes on problems raised and questions asked. She also takes names of every person Sir Alec meets and keeps score of the occasion.

Yet, although she is closely interested in politics, she prefers to keep out of the limelight.

"I don't make speeches. I'm a bad speaker and Sir Alec is not in favor of me making speeches," she said. "I like meeting people, however."

She spends part of one day each week keeping her husband's scrapbooks up to date. They run well over 30. A secretary helps her these days. The books started shortly after the Douglas-Homes were married in 1936 at Durham Cathedral where her father had become dean.

BEFORE SHE MOVED into 10 Downing Street, the home of the Prime Minister, she used to go shopping in supermarkets looking for bargains. That's all behind her now. So's the cooking and housework which she used to do even though her husband is one of the wealthiest men in Scotland.

AT 7 A.M. SHE'S usually the first one up in the Douglas-Home family. She reads the newspapers and at about 7:45 o'clock she's having breakfast with the Prime Minister. (Yes, he still eats porridge.)

Then she confers with the cook about preparing the meals for the day. Almost every day she also has to discuss menus for receptions, luncheons and official dinners with the organization called the Government Hospitality Fund which handles such official functions.

Soon she is going through the voluminous mail with her secretary and dictating replies.

BEFORE LUNCHEON parties she studies guest lists. She's unusually good at names. At the private luncheon parties — they are squeezed in when there are no official ones that day—she has a chance to meet her many friends. Occasionally she goes to official luncheons with her husband.

Afternoons are often given to shopping, hairdresser and other personal matters, but sometimes she has to give interviews to the press and also handle political matters for her husband.

SHE OFTEN HAS tea with the family and her secretary in the sitting room. She drinks her tea standing up, dealing with problems at hand. Sometimes, of course, she has formal teas.

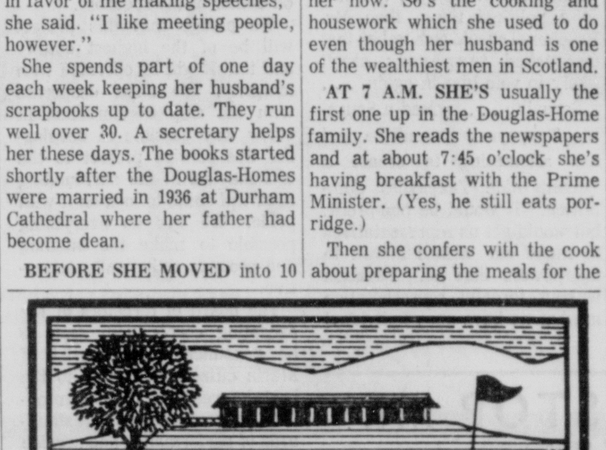
Nearly every evening she has to attend one or two cocktail parties.

There are several official dinners every week. When there's an official visit things speed up. And often dinners are followed by receptions.

Late at night she gets time to talk things over with her husband. It's midnight or later when she gets to bed.

She and the Prime Minister try to get away weekends to homes of friends, to their home in Scotland, or to the official home at Chequers. She travels a lot with her husband too.

BECAUSE SHE HASN'T a maid, she must worry about her clothes and packing them herself.



HOMEMAKER FOR SIR ALEC . . . British Prime Minister Douglas-Home poses with his staunchest supporter, Lady Elizabeth, his wife.

I-J Writer's Auto Anti-Smog Series Has Repercussions

Independent-Journal Wat Takeshita's recent research and news articles concerning crankcase smog-control devices for automobiles brought a lot of letters, pro and con, from readers. His conclusions that this was far from the proper solution—and broke down efficiency of auto engines are now causing serious thinking in many parts of California.

Latest is the Bay Area Pollution Control Board's request that the California Motor Vehicle Pollution Control Board advise the public that no local political body is responsible for any motor troubles due to such devices. The Bay Area's board reports numerous complaints to county supervisors and city councilmen that such crankcase installations have been followed by many woes, including increased malfunctioning of various parts, and higher oil consumption.

The Motor Vehicles Pollution Control Board was negligent in not advising the motoring public what it could expect from such devices, is the opinion of the new Bay Area smog board chairman, Dr. Charles Aby of San Rafael.

So the onus has been taken off district and local officers and organizations. Complaints now should go to the Motor Vehicle Pollution Control Board's nortnern office in care of the State Department of Motor Vehicles in Sacramento.

Blackberry—The Unbeatable Bush

Blackberry bushes are easily Marin's most persistent weed. Given half a chance, they will take over yards and fences, covering them with thorny green tentacles.

A blackberry thicket with its myriad stickers is just about the meanest thing in the world to clean out. The way the thorns close in on one gives him a fair idea of what it must be like to be nibbled to death by paranhas in a South American river. Perhaps not quite as dangerous, but on the painful side nonetheless.

Many Marinites have ambivalent feelings about blackberry bushes. They are fond of the sweet, succulent blackberries, but they hate the bushes that bear them.

DOCTOR'S SKILL DETERS CRIME

Plastic surgery is doing its part in the rehabilitation of prisoners.

Prison officials, aware that unsightly scars can aggravate emotional illnesses that lead to crime, consulted the Albany N. Y. medical center.

The doctors volunteered to staff a plastic surgery service for inmates of New York State Prison. Many prisoners have been relieved of the scars that they felt made them social outcasts and contributed to their anti-social behavior.

The experiment now may become a permanent part of the State's correction department program.

The fact that physical factors can incite to crime is a pointed reminder of the intimate relations in God's plan between body and soul.

Help your fellow man in any way you can to satisfy his legitimate bodily needs. This will be a step towards reducing human misery and providing a climate on earth which will prepare man for his ultimate destiny of heaven.

"Now we, the strong, ought to bear the infirmities of the weak, and not to please ourselves." (Romans 15:1)

Grant, O heavenly Father, that I may see all men as Your children and serve their best interests.

State Water Czar Seeks Federal Help On Fresh Water Experiment

BY HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO, — (CNS) — Discussion concerning the use of de-salted sea water as an adjunct to the fresh water supply in California have been carried on for something like twenty years here in California, and finally, one director in the state administration is trying to do something about it.

This is William E. Warne, director of water resources, who is in Washington, D. C., to discuss federal co-operation in a proposal to include a dual purpose nuclear power plant in the state water project.

THE PROPOSED plant would be used to make electrical energy to pump the project's conserved water over the Tehachapi mountains to southern California, and to provide steam to use for the conversion of salt sea water to fresh water.

Power generated at Oroville dam will be insufficient to man the huge pumping operation. Oroville has been designed, therefore, to sell power at peak demand periods, with the idea in mind that the added premium for this power might come somewhere near paying for purchased power from other sources for pumping water at the low level of power demand at a price considerably lower.

Not only Oroville but the increasing demands for power in California will in time make the installation of nuclear plants a necessity, if supply is to meet demand. Warne says the dual purpose nuclear plant may be a way to achieve real economies.

A NUCLEAR PLANT such as he has in mind would supply from 15 to 50 million gallons of water a day, a small supply, but one which would be important as it released other fresh water for other purposes.

The department of water resources and the atomic energy commission are in substantial agreement on principles for co-operative financing, development, design, construction and operation of a large power reactor. Negotiations with other federal agencies to evaluate alternative sources of energy for the pumping operation are under way, and this is what Warne is doing in Washington.

TO ACCOMPLISH the project, water resources will find it necessary to "sell" the state legislature on the subject of installing nuclear reactors.

The California legislature would be asked to authorize not to exceed 50 per cent of the cost as California's share of the project, which, of course, would be the initial step in an eventual string of nuclear plants up and down the coast, spaced to be located at points where demands for additional water is the greatest.

Selling the legislature should not be difficult. Representatives from the counties of origin would see the suggestion as a means of increasing supplies in those counties. City representatives are wholly conscious of the need for more power and more water as these cities are grow by leaps and bounds.

ALTHOUGH CALIFORNIA through its various water projects can conserve water, and make more water available for domestic, industrial and irrigation use, it cannot develop new water except through the desalting method, which is highly expensive. But the time is rapidly approaching when expense will not be a serious item.

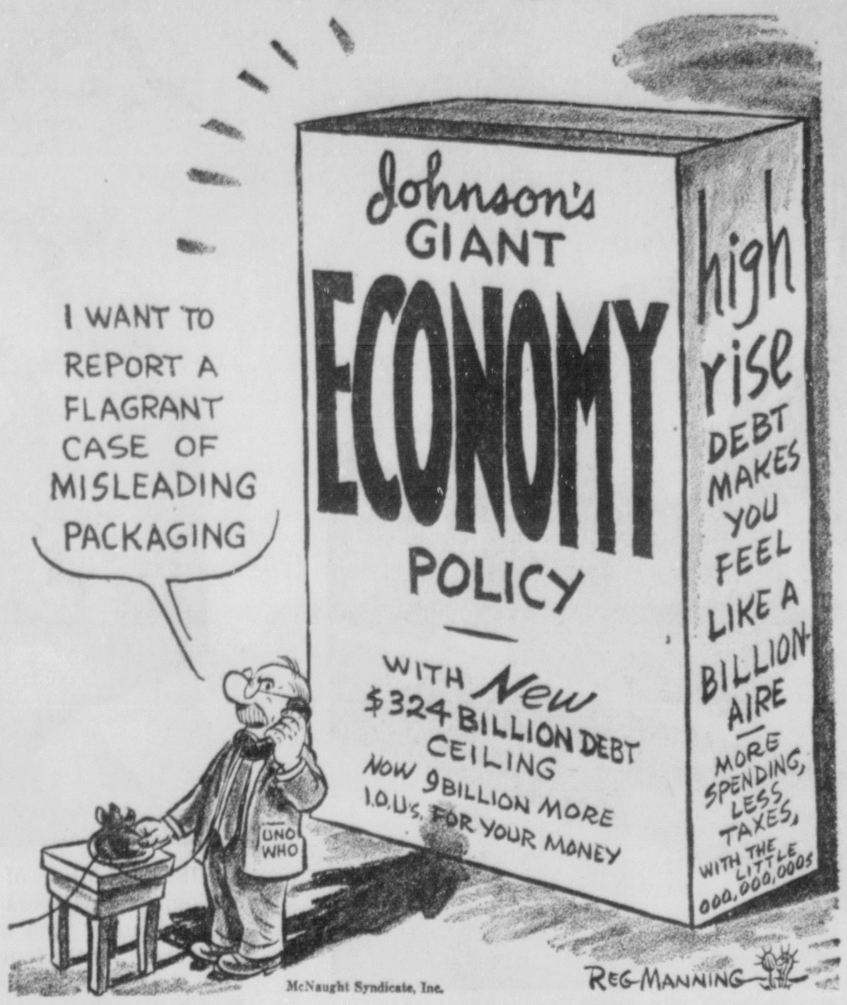
HELLO, MR. PRESIDENT—



WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Finds No Racial Hatred Document

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Almost two thousand years since the proclamation "Peace on earth, good will towards men", yet hatred and bitterness seem more virulent than ever. Defamation is a means used and a crude example appeared in a letter signed by M. Jones.

The correspondent attributes a program to foment racial conflict in the U. S. in a document presented to the English Communist Party in 1912 authored by a Mr. Israel Cohen. I decided to research the quotation and discovered: there is no such book, no such author, and there was no such party in England in 1912. The Third International was formed in Moscow in 1919 to launch Communist Parties.

Why not say this non-existent document for a non-existent political party was authored by Jew Hebrew and sign the letter Adolph Hitler? It is a sad commentary that such a defamation is published without editorial comment. Perhaps it is felt that setting the facts straight will not eradicate the bitterness and hatred that would inspire such a letter.

Likes Countywide Taxpayer Group

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Marin is known as one of the highest tax-paying counties in the State of California. Call that prestige? For whom, Mr. Broemmel? He may represent Marin County, to the State Board of Equalization, as a more than average income community, but does that give him license to assess our property higher than other county assessors do? Fair-market value is his yardstick. His idea of fair-market value is not necessarily ours. I recall that in San Francisco the land value either remained the same or increased according to community improvements, but the houses on that land decreased in market value as they became older. Why not here? We are not only penalized for keeping our homes and grounds in good condition, but are assessed according to what Jones or Smith down the street sold his home for. It matters not that Jones sold a relatively new house or that the College of Marin paid an exorbitant $27,000 for a rundown old house on Kent Avenue because they wanted that particular piece of land. Because we have the same square footage we are supposed to have the same market value. . . .

Granted there are some grandiose estates in Marin County. But the majority of residences are mediocre and what if the average income is $10,000, are we being taxed on our income or on the square footage of what we call home? New homes in new tracts are ever more plentiful, but don't forget that most of them are occupied by newly marrieds, some with young children, where the wife and mother more often than not has to go out and work also. . . .

You have printed that Mr. Broemmel does the best he can, but is under pressure. By whom? Surely not the supervisors, they represent the people. By the State Board of Equalization? Do they figure that because we have "better than average income" we should take the brunt of their expenses? We don't need that kind of recognization? By business tycoons? . . . We are primarily a residential community. . . . If this is a political thing, then Mr. Broemmel should remember that dissatisfied taxpayers aren't likely to vote him in again. . . .

Sausalito . . . formed a Sausalito Taxpayers Committee and are attempting to create a "County-wide Taxpayers Committee." It would be non-profit, but would get us representatives to make our wishes known to the powers that be. Taxation without forceful representation is what we have now. Individual supervisors, diligent as they may be, can only cast one vote. Pressure throughout the county on every supervisor is what we need. . . .

Sausalito is pioneering this movement; we should not expect to gratis ride on the bandwagon. However determined they are to see this thing through they need help. They have started the ball rolling; we can keep it rolling by giving our moral support in attending their open meetings and by donating a few dollars to help not only their cause but our own. . . .

Another thing, for those of us who still have a choice, renters and homeowners alike, it is important that you find out before November how the man you choose as your supervisor stands on Marin County tax assessment methods.

Retirement Home Sponsors' Pledge

Editor, Independent-Journal:

In the past two months the citizens of Larkspur have engaged in a lively debate. During this time, there has been ample opportunity for all to express their views. This democratic process has culminated in the granting of a variance and use permit for the building of a retirement residence in Greenbrae, Larkspur, by the city council.

Because this has stimulated so much interest I would like to make the following statements on behalf of the sponsors.

We pledge that this project will be of the highest quality and that it will be operated with integrity. We shall cooperate with the City of Larkspur in every way possible in developing this service project to the end that all in the surrounding area will come to look on it with pride. We will do everything possible to make the building and grounds esthetically attractive.

The board of directors of the operating corporation, soon to be announced, will consist of Marin citizens dedicated to the best interests of their community. This will insure high standards of performance and service to the residents.

We are grateful to the City Councilmen and planners for their patience and their courage in voting according to their convictions.

Where's Adlai If Barry Elected?

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I respect Senator Barry Goldwater's convictions, and agree . . . that "one of his special political virtues is that he has regularly spoken as he believed and voted as he has spoken."

But if such is the case, then Ambassador Adlai Stevenson better hope that Barry loses in November, if Adlai likes his home at the United Nations building.

TRY AND STOP ME

BENNETT CERF

JEROME BEATTY tells about a friendly, publicity-loving ghost who whooshed into a photographer's studio and allowed as how he'd like to have a full-sized picture of himself. The obliging photographer set up his camera and lights, snapped the shutter once, and waved goodbye as the ghost dissolved into space. Alas! The photographer got no picture because the negative, it developed, was underexposed. To put it in a nutshell, the spirit was willing, but the flash was weak.

A LITTLE GIRL, fond of dismissing any problems with an airy "It's nothing" was asked finally just what she thought "nothing" meant. Her imaginative definition was, "Nothing is like a balloon with its skin off."

SILLY ELEPHANT RIDDLES:

Q. What do you do when an elephant sneezes?
A. Get out of the way.
Q. Why do elephants need trunks?
A. Because they have no glove compartments.
Q. What do you call elephants who ride on jets?
A. Passengers.

Garfield Shot 82 Years Ago, But Succession Still Not Set

WASHINGTON (AP)—"My God, what is there in this place that a man should want to get into it?" That was James A. Garfield's view shortly after becoming president. He didn't have to bear the burden long, just 199 days.

He took office March 4, 1881 and 83 years ago on July 2, 1881, was shot in the back by an assassin. He lingered 80 days and died Sept. 19.

THE QUESTION RAISED by his long illness — how does a vice president take over from a disabled president and who determines disability?—has never been answered by act of Congress or constitutional amendment.

An attempt to answer it, and change the line of succession to the presidency, is pending in this Congress in the form of a constitutional amendment. Odds are Congress will quit for 1964 without acting.

Garfield was so plagued by people wanting government jobs that after two months in office he said: "It will cost me some struggle to keep from despising the office-seeker."

HE WAS SHOT by a disgruntled office-seeker, Charles J. Guiteau, 39 - year - old crooked lawyer and preacher who was 10 years younger than Garfield. But Guiteau had mixed motives. Like the President, he was a Republican.

Garfield was in a bruising Republican intraparty fight. On assassination day Guiteau wrote a note saying his act was a "necessity" to unite the party. He sounded like a mental case. But after a 10½-week trial a jury ignored his insanity plea and convicted him. He was hanged June 30, 1882.

IN HIS 80 DAYS of dying Garfield performed only one official act: He signed extradition papers in a forgery case. Part of the time he was unconscious. Vice President Chester A. Arthur never took over until Garfield died.

Some Cabinet members had wanted him to but were deterred by fear that Garfield could nevur resume the presidency, if he recovered, once Arthur had acted as president. There was similar uncertainty and inaction in President Wilson's illness.

During Garfield's illness there was a foreign crisis. And the machinery of government began to creak. But those were horse-and-buggy days. The country was safe from instant disaster because it was remote from any major foe.

IT COULD HOPE to survive longer without a man in the White House than in this time of intercontinental missiles when a split-second decision by a chief executive could mean the difference between survival and disaster.

In the 83 years since Garfield, Congress has still not tackled the disability problem. On this the Constitution has been unchanged from the beginning and has always been hazy:

If a president dies, resigns, or is unable to discharge the duties of his office. "The same shall devolve on the vice president." But it doesn't say who decides a president is too disabled to function.

NOR DOES IT ANSWER: If a vice president takes over the duties of a disabled president, can the latter resume office if he recovers? And who shall say he has recovered?

President Lyndon B. Johnson, lacking a clear-cut legal answer, has worked out an arrangement on this with House Speaker John McCormack, next in line to succeed him. Presidents Dwight D. Eisenhower and John F. Kennedy did the same with their vice presidents.

Congress has stepped in three times to meet another problem:

WHO SUCCEEDS to the presidency if the president dies and there's no vice president. Eight times in American history, when a president died, a vice president succeeded him, leaving the vice presidency empty. Congress passed these three laws:

1793 — The Senate's president pro tempore a senator and then the speaker of the House would be next in line of succession. 1886—The members of the Cabinet, starting with secretary of state. 1947—The speaker of the House and then the Senate's president pro tempore. The 1947 act still stands.

The constitutional amendment now hung up in Congress would wipe out the 1947 act and provide for the twin problems of succession and disability.

THE ALLEN-SCOTT REPORT

Nation's Leadership May Meet On Rights

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — President Lyndon B. Johnson is taking extensive soundings on the advisability of holding a national conference on the newly-enacted far-reaching civil rights measure.

PURPOSE OF SUCH a White House meeting would be to "prepare the ground for the smooth and understanding enforcement and operation of the history-making law by mustering the interest and support of state and local authorities, the church, business, labor, civic organizations and responsible volunteer efforts.

Being consulted on this dramatic plan are governors and mayors, clergymen, prominent business and labor leaders, educators, and representatives of a wide variety of organizations.

With a few exceptions, those approached have favored the President's proposal.

Some have advised a series of presidential conferences rather than one big general gathering; that is, separate meetings of state and local officials, clergymen, business and labor, educators, etc.

THIS SUGGESTION has won support among lieutenants of the President on several grounds: Separate meetings of particular groups would facilitate the consideration of and possible action on specific problems; they would have more widespread publicity and impact.

The fact that this is a major election year is very much on the mind of these inner administration officials.

He has discussed that with congressional leaders, particularly Senate Democratic Whip Hubert Humphrey, Minn., floor leader for the legislation in the protracted struggle in the upper chamber. Humphrey strongly favors a conference to "bring about application of civil rights."

"The enactment of this epochal civil rights bill," Humphrey told the President, "is a great step forward, but many problems still beset us and remain to be solved. Foremost among them is how this new law is implemented on the state, local and federal level, and how it is backed up by community action and community support.

PRESIDENT JOHNSON is taking a significant step in seeking to forge greater control over the Democratic National Committee — where Kennedy elements and influence still abound.

Moving into key places in the committee are James Rowe, one-time Roosevelt brain-truster, 1960 campaign manager for Senator Hubert Humphrey, and long a close adviser of Johnson, and Assistant Secretary of State Fred Dutton, who is giving up that job to devote full time to the President's campaign.

PRESENT PLANS CALL for National Chairman John Bailey remaining, but as little more than a figurehead.

The Country Parson

"Some members seem to deal in second-hand criticism—making sure the preacher hears what shouldn't have been said about him in the first place."

By THERON NEWELL

Idea Of Turning Part Of Novato Into 'Old Town' Is Spreading

THE MOVEMENT to turn the eastern part of the Novato business district into an "old town" with early Spanish and Western design is showing some results.

The Ben Franklin Store at 871 Grant Avenue and Tobin's Appliances at 872 Grant Avenue have already undergone transformation with new paint, shutters and gingerbread trimmings placed on the front of them. In addition their names have been put in old time type on the front of the stores. Tobin's have a three feet high hand hammered brass carriage lamp which they will electrify and place on the outside of that building.

Mrs. Tobin said that since they have changed the front of the store, hundreds of people have come in to tell them how nice it looks.

"Some of them are total strangers and some are people we haven't seen in years," she said.

ALFRED BOWMAN, one of the property owners in the old part of town and who has actively backed the idea of changing the east end of the business district into an old Western town, has launched a project of his own.

He found out that the old house owned by Robert L. Gaut at 1416 South Novato Boulevard was the oldest frame house left in Novato and was the first post-office for the town between 1856 and 1860. So he got a six-month option from Gaut to buy it for $5,000 to use as the basis of a city museum.

"We hope to raise $6,000 toward buying it and will give it to the city to start a city museum," Bowman said. The extra $1,000 would help move it and repair it for the city, he stated.

BOWMAN SAID he had a good start on raising the funds. Mrs. Elsie Andersen, administrator of the estate of Gordon Andersen and owner of Andersen Chevrolet, gave Bowman a $2,000 check Thursday to be used toward buying the old house. She gave the money in memory of her late husband.

Gaut told Bowman that the $100 given for down payment for the house would be his donation to the museum fund. So the donations to give Novato a museum are starting to come in.

Bowman said that if he did not get enough money to buy the old house, he would simply refund all the money. He had suggested that the Downtown Improvement Assn. help on the museum project, but that organization turned it down.

"If that house is torn down, it can never be replaced and it is the oldest building in Novato," he added.

ONE SUGGESTED location for the old house was to put it between the community house and the city administrator's office. Another was to put it beside the community house in part of what is now the city parking lot.

Mrs. Kathleen Simpkins, deputy city clerk, showed how much old antique stuff there is lying around Novato, just waiting for a suitable location for it. She collected a very creditable display for Western Weekend and changed a part of the city hall into an excellent replica of a century old home.

City Administrator J. Julien Baget, whose idea of transforming the east end of town into an old town first appeared in this column, is now looking into modern electrified gas lamps for the streets. He has found one place in the state that manufactures them, but has not yet submitted any plan to the city council to install them. Some of the merchants are making inquiry into the cost of the gas lamps for their own stores, so the idea of an old town is spreading.

Lutherans Asked To Condemn Bias, Plan Childbirth

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Delegates to the biennial convention of the Lutheran Church in America (LCA) yesterday were asked to condemn racism as blasphemy and to plan their families according to their spiritual and economic resources.

"Injurious discrimination based on race is a violation of God's created order," the 700 delegates were told in a report from the denomination's board of social ministry.

The report urged the church to "oppose any law or governmental practice which under the guise of rightful authority perverts justice."

It said that Lutherans who pray for cleansing of the soul and then practice racial discrimination are guilty of "an act of blasphemy."

If You're Over 25, Chances Good You're Reading This With Glasses

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

At the age of 25, some 35 per cent of Americans need to wear glasses.

What are the goals of teen-age girls? A study showed that most want to be either housewives or airline hostesses. Only one in five preferred office work.

TEEN-AGE BOYS, on the other hand, showed interest in careers in aviation, professional athletics, business, the armed forces, and engineering. Missing among the top 20 occupational choices of male high school seniors were roles as scientist, newspaperman, doctor, minister, teacher—or president of the United States.

Twenty million Americans are taking care of 650 million pet fish.

Quotable notables: "Worry affects the circulation, the heart, the glands, the whole nervous system. I have never known a man who died from overwork, but many who died from doubt." —Dr. Charles H. Mayo.

NATURE NOTES: Rodents cause more property damage than tornadoes. A rattlesnake usually grows two, not one, rattles each year. Meadowlarks aren't true larks—they belong to the black bird family. Giraffes have such poor voices they "talk" to each other by switching their tails. U.N. medical studies indicate that the United States now has passed France as the world's most alcoholic nation. One out of 20 Americans is thought to be a problem drinker.

"There are more oil glands per square inch on a woman's face than there are oil wells in Texas," says Dr. John R. Haserick, Cleveland skin specialist.

The originator of the presidential "whistle-stop campaign" was William Jennings Bryan. In 1896 he traveled 18,000 miles by railroad and made 600 speeches. William McKinley waged a back-porch campaign—and won handily.

FOLKLORE: If you see a red-haired girl, you will soon see a white horse. If you throw a small fish back into the water, it will tell the other fish, and no more will bite. It is bad luck to kill a daddy-longlegs or a ladybug. If a girl gets the front of her dress wet while doing her laundry, she will marry a drunkard.

It was Oscar Wilde who observed, "The books that the world calls immoral are books that show the world its own shame."

Early Memorial Day exercises underscored the North's victory in the Civil War, but as new wars were fought, it became an occasion for honoring all Americans who died for their country.

I-J Writer's Auto Anti-Smog Series Has Repercussions

Independent-Journal Wat Takeshita's recent research and news articles concerning crankcase smog-control devices for automobiles brought a lot of letters, pro and con, from readers. His conclusions that this was far from the proper solution—and broke down efficiency of auto engines are now causing serious thinking in many parts of California.

Latest is the Bay Area Pollution Control Board's request that the California Motor Vehicle Pollution Control Board advise the public that no local political body is responsible for any motor troubles due to such devices. The Bay Area's board reports numerous complaints to county supervisors and city councilmen that such crankcase installations have been followed by many woes, including increased malfunctioning of various parts, and higher oil consumption.

The Motor Vehicles Pollution Control Board was negligent in not advising the motoring public what it could expect from such devices, is the opinion of the new Bay Area smog board chairman, Dr. Charles Aby of San Rafael.

So the onus has been taken off district and local officers and organizations. Complaints now should go to the Motor Vehicle Pollution Control Board's nortnern office in care of the State Department of Motor Vehicles in Sacramento.

Blackberry—The Unbeatable Bush

Blackberry bushes are easily Marin's most persistent weed. Given half a chance, they will take over yards and fences, covering them with thorny green tentacles.

A blackberry thicket with its myriad stickers is just about the meanest thing in the world to clean out. The way the thorns close in on one gives him a fair idea of what it must be like to be nibbled to death by paranhas in a South American river. Perhaps not quite as dangerous, but on the painful side nonetheless.

Many Marinites have ambivalent feelings about blackberry bushes. They are fond of the sweet, succulent blackberries, but they hate the bushes that bear them.

DOCTOR'S SKILL DETERS CRIME

Plastic surgery is doing its part in the rehabilitation of prisoners.

Prison officials, aware that unsightly scars can aggravate emotional illnesses that lead to crime, consulted the Albany N. Y. medical center.

The doctors volunteered to staff a plastic surgery service for inmates of New York State Prison. Many prisoners have been relieved of the scars that they felt made them social outcasts and contributed to their anti-social behavior.

The experiment now may become a permanent part of the State's correction department program.

The fact that physical factors can incite to crime is a pointed reminder of the intimate relations in God's plan between body and soul.

Help your fellow man in any way you can to satisfy his legitimate bodily needs. This will be a step towards reducing human misery and providing a climate on earth which will prepare man for his ultimate destiny of heaven.

"Now we, the strong, ought to bear the infirmities of the weak, and not to please ourselves." (Romans 15:1)

Grant, O heavenly Father, that I may see all men as Your children and serve their best interests.

State Water Czar Seeks Federal Help On Fresh Water Experiment

BY HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO, — (CNS) — Discussion concerning the use of de-salted sea water as an adjunct to the fresh water supply in California have been carried on for something like twenty years here in California, and finally, one director in the state administration is trying to do something about it.

This is William E. Warne, director of water resources, who is in Washington, D. C., to discuss federal co-operation in a proposal to include a dual purpose nuclear power plant in the state water project.

THE PROPOSED plant would be used to make electrical energy to pump the project's conserved water over the Tehachapi mountains to southern California, and to provide steam to use for the conversion of salt sea water to fresh water.

Power generated at Oroville dam will be insufficient to man the huge pumping operation. Oroville has been designed, therefore, to sell power at peak demand periods, with the idea in mind that the added premium for this power might come somewhere near paying for purchased power from other sources for pumping water at the low level of power demand at a price considerably lower.

Not only Oroville but the increasing demands for power in California will in time make the installation of nuclear plants a necessity, if supply is to meet demand. Warne says the dual purpose nuclear plant may be a way to achieve real economies.

A NUCLEAR PLANT such as he has in mind would supply from 15 to 50 million gallons of water a day, a small supply, but one which would be important as it released other fresh water for other purposes.

The department of water resources and the atomic energy commission are in substantial agreement on principles for co-operative financing, development, design, construction and operation of a large power reactor. Negotiations with other federal agencies to evaluate alternative sources of energy for the pumping operation are under way, and this is what Warne is doing in Washington.

TO ACCOMPLISH the project, water resources will find it necessary to "sell" the state legislature on the subject of installing nuclear reactors.

The California legislature would be asked to authorize not to exceed 50 per cent of the cost as California's share of the project, which, of course, would be the initial step in an eventual string of nuclear plants up and down the coast, spaced to be located at points where demands for additional water is the greatest.

Selling the legislature should not be difficult. Representatives from the counties of origin would see the suggestion as a means of increasing supplies in those counties. City representatives are wholly conscious of the need for more power and more water as these cities are grow by leaps and bounds.

ALTHOUGH CALIFORNIA through its various water projects can conserve water, and make more water available for domestic, industrial and irrigation use, it cannot develop new water except through the desalting method, which is highly expensive. But the time is rapidly approaching when expense will not be a serious item.

HELLO, MR. PRESIDENT—

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Finds No Racial Hatred Document

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Almost two thousand years since the proclamation "Peace on earth, good will towards men", yet hatred and bitterness seem more virulent than ever. Defamation is a means used and a crude example appeared in a letter signed by M. Jones.

The correspondent attributes a program to foment racial conflict in the U. S. in a document presented to the English Communist Party in 1912 authored by a Mr. Israel Cohen. I decided to research the quotation and discovered: there is no such book, no such author, and there was no such party in England in 1912. The Third International was formed in Moscow in 1919 to launch Communist Parties.

Why not say this non-existent document for a non-existent political party was authored by Jew Hebrew and sign the letter Adolph Hitler? It is a sad commentary that such a defamation is published without editorial comment. Perhaps it is felt that setting the facts straight will not eradicate the bitterness and hatred that would inspire such a letter.

Likes Countywide Taxpayer Group

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Marin is known as one of the highest tax-paying counties in the State of California. Call that prestige? For whom, Mr. Broemmel? He may represent Marin County, to the State Board of Equalization, as a more than average income community, but does that give him license to assess our property higher than other county assessors do? Fair-market value is his yardstick. His idea of fair-market value is not necessarily ours. I recall that in San Francisco the land value either remained the same or increased according to community improvements, but the houses on that land decreased in market value as they became older. Why not here? We are not only penalized for keeping our homes and grounds in good condition, but are assessed according to what Jones or Smith down the street sold his home for. It matters not that Jones sold a relatively new house or that the College of Marin paid an exorbitant $27,000 for a rundown old house on Kent Avenue because they wanted that particular piece of land. Because we have the same square footage we are supposed to have the same market value. . . .

Granted there are some grandiose estates in Marin County. But the majority of residences are mediocre and what if the average income is $10,000, are we being taxed on our income or on the square footage of what we call home? New homes in new tracts are ever more plentiful, but don't forget that most of them are occupied by newly marrieds, some with young children, where the wife and mother more often than not has to go out and work also. . . .

You have printed that Mr. Broemmel does the best he can, but is under pressure. By whom? Surely not the supervisors, they represent the people. By the State Board of Equalization? Do they figure that because we have "better than average income" we should take the brunt of their expenses? We don't need that kind of recognization? By business tycoons? . . . We are primarily a residential community. . . . If this is a political thing, then Mr. Broemmel should remember that dissatisfied taxpayers aren't likely to vote him in again. . . .

Sausalito . . . formed a Sausalito Taxpayers Committee and are attempting to create a "County-wide Taxpayers Committee." It would be non-profit, but would get us representatives to make our wishes known to the powers that be. Taxation without forceful representation is what we have now. Individual supervisors, diligent as they may be, can only cast one vote. Pressure throughout the county on every supervisor is what we need. . . .

Sausalito is pioneering this movement; we should not expect to gratis ride on the bandwagon. However determined they are to see this thing through they need help. They have started the ball rolling; we can keep it rolling by giving our moral support in attending their open meetings and by donating a few dollars to help not only their cause but our own. . . .

Another thing, for those of us who still have a choice, renters and homeowners alike, it is important that you find out before November how the man you choose as your supervisor stands on Marin County tax assessment methods.

Retirement Home Sponsors' Pledge

Editor, Independent-Journal:

In the past two months the citizens of Larkspur have engaged in a lively debate. During this time, there has been ample opportunity for all to express their views. This democratic process has culminated in the granting of a variance and use permit for the building of a retirement residence in Greenbrae, Larkspur, by the city council.

Because this has stimulated so much interest I would like to make the following statements on behalf of the sponsors.

We pledge that this project will be of the highest quality and that it will be operated with integrity. We shall cooperate with the City of Larkspur in every way possible in developing this service project to the end that all in the surrounding area will come to look on it with pride. We will do everything possible to make the building and grounds esthetically attractive.

The board of directors of the operating corporation, soon to be announced, will consist of Marin citizens dedicated to the best interests of their community. This will insure high standards of performance and service to the residents.

We are grateful to the City Councilmen and planners for their patience and their courage in voting according to their convictions.

Where's Adlai If Barry Elected?

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I respect Senator Barry Goldwater's convictions, and agree . . . that "one of his special political virtues is that he has regularly spoken as he believed and voted as he has spoken."

But if such is the case, then Ambassador Adlai Stevenson better hope that Barry loses in November, if Adlai likes his home at the United Nations building.

TRY AND STOP ME

BENNETT CERF

JEROME BEATTY tells about a friendly, publicity-loving ghost who whooshed into a photographer's studio and allowed as how he'd like to have a full-sized picture of himself. The obliging photographer set up his camera and lights, snapped the shutter once, and waved goodbye as the ghost dissolved into space. Alas! The photographer got no picture because the negative, it developed, was underexposed. To put it in a nutshell, the spirit was willing, but the flash was weak.

A LITTLE GIRL, fond of dismissing any problems with an airy "It's nothing" was asked finally just what she thought "nothing" meant. Her imaginative definition was, "Nothing is like a balloon with its skin off."

SILLY ELEPHANT RIDDLES:

Q. What do you do when an elephant sneezes?
A. Get out of the way.
Q. Why do elephants need trunks?
A. Because they have no glove compartments.
Q. What do you call elephants who ride on jets?
A. Passengers.

Garfield Shot 82 Years Ago, But Succession Still Not Set

WASHINGTON (AP)—"My God, what is there in this place that a man should want to get into it?" That was James A. Garfield's view shortly after becoming president. He didn't have to bear the burden long, just 199 days.

He took office March 4, 1881 and 83 years ago on July 2, 1881, was shot in the back by an assassin. He lingered 80 days and died Sept. 19.

THE QUESTION RAISED by his long illness — how does a vice president take over from a disabled president and who determines disability?—has never been answered by act of Congress or constitutional amendment.

An attempt to answer it, and change the line of succession to the presidency, is pending in this Congress in the form of a constitutional amendment. Odds are Congress will quit for 1964 without acting.

Garfield was so plagued by people wanting government jobs that after two months in office he said: "It will cost me some struggle to keep from despising the office-seeker."

HE WAS SHOT by a disgruntled office-seeker, Charles J. Guiteau, 39 - year - old crooked lawyer and preacher who was 10 years younger than Garfield. But Guiteau had mixed motives. Like the President, he was a Republican.

Garfield was in a bruising Republican intraparty fight. On assassination day Guiteau wrote a note saying his act was a "necessity" to unite the party. He sounded like a mental case. But after a 10½-week trial a jury ignored his insanity plea and convicted him. He was hanged June 30, 1882.

IN HIS 80 DAYS of dying Garfield performed only one official act: He signed extradition papers in a forgery case. Part of the time he was unconscious. Vice President Chester A. Arthur never took over until Garfield died.

Some Cabinet members had wanted him to but were deterred by fear that Garfield could nevur resume the presidency, if he recovered, once Arthur had acted as president. There was similar uncertainty and inaction in President Wilson's illness.

During Garfield's illness there was a foreign crisis. And the machinery of government began to creak. But those were horse-and-buggy days. The country was safe from instant disaster because it was remote from any major foe.

IT COULD HOPE to survive longer without a man in the White House than in this time of intercontinental missiles when a split-second decision by a chief executive could mean the difference between survival and disaster.

In the 83 years since Garfield, Congress has still not tackled the disability problem. On this the Constitution has been unchanged from the beginning and has always been hazy:

If a president dies, resigns, or is unable to discharge the duties of his office. "The same shall devolve on the vice president." But it doesn't say who decides a president is too disabled to function.

NOR DOES IT ANSWER: If a vice president takes over the duties of a disabled president, can the latter resume office if he recovers? And who shall say he has recovered?

President Lyndon B. Johnson, lacking a clear-cut legal answer, has worked out an arrangement on this with House Speaker John McCormack, next in line to succeed him. Presidents Dwight D. Eisenhower and John F. Kennedy did the same with their vice presidents.

Congress has stepped in three times to meet another problem:

WHO SUCCEEDS to the presidency if the president dies and there's no vice president. Eight times in American history, when a president died, a vice president succeeded him, leaving the vice presidency empty. Congress passed these three laws:

1793 — The Senate's president pro tempore a senator and then the speaker of the House would be next in line of succession. 1886—The members of the Cabinet, starting with secretary of state. 1947—The speaker of the House and then the Senate's president pro tempore. The 1947 act still stands.

The constitutional amendment now hung up in Congress would wipe out the 1947 act and provide for the twin problems of succession and disability.

THE ALLEN-SCOTT REPORT

Nation's Leadership May Meet On Rights

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — President Lyndon B. Johnson is taking extensive soundings on the advisability of holding a national conference on the newly-enacted far-reaching civil rights measure.

PURPOSE OF SUCH a White House meeting would be to "prepare the ground for the smooth and understanding enforcement and operation of the history-making law by mustering the interest and support of state and local authorities, the church, business, labor, civic organizations and responsible volunteer efforts.

Being consulted on this dramatic plan are governors and mayors, clergymen, prominent business and labor leaders, educators, and representatives of a wide variety of organizations.

With a few exceptions, those approached have favored the President's proposal.

Some have advised a series of presidential conferences rather than one big general gathering; that is, separate meetings of state and local officials, clergymen, business and labor, educators, etc.

THIS SUGGESTION has won support among lieutenants of the President on several grounds: Separate meetings of particular groups would facilitate the consideration of and possible action on specific problems; they would have more widespread publicity and impact.

The fact that this is a major election year is very much on the mind of these inner administration officials.

He has discussed that with congressional leaders, particularly Senate Democratic Whip Hubert Humphrey, Minn., floor leader for the legislation in the protracted struggle in the upper chamber. Humphrey strongly favors a conference to "bring about application of civil rights."

"The enactment of this epochal civil rights bill," Humphrey told the President, "is a great step forward, but many problems still beset us and remain to be solved. Foremost among them is how this new law is implemented on the state, local and federal level, and how it is backed up by community action and community support.

PRESIDENT JOHNSON is taking a significant step in seeking to forge greater control over the Democratic National Committee — where Kennedy elements and influence still abound.

Moving into key places in the committee are James Rowe, one-time Roosevelt brain-truster, 1960 campaign manager for Senator Hubert Humphrey, and long a close adviser of Johnson, and Assistant Secretary of State Fred Dutton, who is giving up that job to devote full time to the President's campaign.

PRESENT PLANS CALL for National Chairman John Bailey remaining, but as little more than a figurehead.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By THERON NEWELL

Idea Of Turning Part Of Novato Into 'Old Town' Is Spreading

THE MOVEMENT to turn the eastern part of the Novato business district into an "old town" with early Spanish and Western design is showing some results.

The Ben Franklin Store at 871 Grant Avenue and Tobin's Appliances at 872 Grant Avenue have already undergone transformation with new paint, shutters and gingerbread trimmings placed on the front of them. In addition their names have been put in old time type on the front of the stores. Tobin's have a three feet high hand hammered brass carriage lamp which they will electrify and place on the outside of that building.

Mrs. Tobin said that since they have changed the front of the store, hundreds of people have come in to tell them how nice it looks.

"Some of them are total strangers and some are people we haven't seen in years," she said.

ALFRED BOWMAN, one of the property owners in the old part of town and who has actively backed the idea of changing the east end of the business district into an old Western town, has launched a project of his own.

He found out that the old house owned by Robert L. Gaut at 1416 South Novato Boulevard was the oldest frame house left in Novato and was the first post-office for the town between 1856 and 1860. So he got a six-month option from Gaut to buy it for $5,000 to use as the basis of a city museum.

"We hope to raise $6,000 toward buying it and will give it to the city to start a city museum," Bowman said. The extra $1,000 would help move it and repair it for the city, he stated.

BOWMAN SAID he had a good start on raising the funds. Mrs. Elsie Andersen, administrator of the estate of Gordon Andersen and owner of Andersen Chevrolet, gave Bowman a $2,000 check Thursday to be used toward buying the old house. She gave the money in memory of her late husband.

Gaut told Bowman that the $100 given for down payment for the house would be his donation to the museum fund. So the donations to give Novato a museum are starting to come in.

Bowman said that if he did not get enough money to buy the old house, he would simply refund all the money. He had suggested that the Downtown Improvement Assn. help on the museum project, but that organization turned it down.

"If that house is torn down, it can never be replaced and it is the oldest building in Novato," he added.

ONE SUGGESTED location for the old house was to put it between the community house and the city administrator's office. Another was to put it beside the community house in part of what is now the city parking lot.

Mrs. Kathleen Simpkins, deputy city clerk, showed how much old antique stuff there is lying around Novato, just waiting for a suitable location for it. She collected a very creditable display for Western Weekend and changed a part of the city hall into an excellent replica of a century old home.

City Administrator J. Julien Baget, whose idea of transforming the east end of town into an old town first appeared in this column, is now looking into modern electrified gas lamps for the streets. He has found one place in the state that manufactures them, but has not yet submitted any plan to the city council to install them. Some of the merchants are making inquiry into the cost of the gas lamps for their own stores, so the idea of an old town is spreading.

Lutherans Asked To Condemn Bias, Plan Childbirth

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Delegates to the biennial convention of the Lutheran Church in America (LCA) yesterday were asked to condemn racism as blasphemy and to plan their families according to their spiritual and economic resources.

"Injurious discrimination based on race is a violation of God's created order," the 700 delegates were told in a report from the denomination's board of social ministry.

The report urged the church to "oppose any law or governmental practice which under the guise of rightful authority perverts justice."

It said that Lutherans who pray for cleansing of the soul and then practice racial discrimination are guilty of "an act of blasphemy."

If You're Over 25, Chances Good You're Reading This With Glasses

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

At the age of 25, some 35 per cent of Americans need to wear glasses.

What are the goals of teen-age girls? A study showed that most want to be either housewives or airline hostesses. Only one in five preferred office work.

TEEN-AGE BOYS, on the other hand, showed interest in careers in aviation, professional athletics, business, the armed forces, and engineering. Missing among the top 20 occupational choices of male high school seniors were roles as scientist, newspaperman, doctor, minister, teacher—or president of the United States.

Twenty million Americans are taking care of 650 million pet fish.

Quotable notables: "Worry affects the circulation, the heart, the glands, the whole nervous system. I have never known a man who died from overwork, but many who died from doubt." —Dr. Charles H. Mayo.

NATURE NOTES: Rodents cause more property damage than tornadoes. A rattlesnake usually grows two, not one, rattles each year. Meadowlarks aren't true larks—they belong to the black bird family. Giraffes have such poor voices they "talk" to each other by switching their tails. U.N. medical studies indicate that the United States now has passed France as the world's most alcoholic nation. One out of 20 Americans is thought to be a problem drinker.

"There are more oil glands per square inch on a woman's face than there are oil wells in Texas," says Dr. John R. Haserick, Cleveland skin specialist.

The originator of the presidential "whistle-stop campaign" was William Jennings Bryan. In 1896 he traveled 18,000 miles by railroad and made 600 speeches. William McKinley waged a back-porch campaign—and won handily.

FOLKLORE: If you see a red-haired girl, you will soon see a white horse. If you throw a small fish back into the water, it will tell the other fish, and no more will bite. It is bad luck to kill a daddy-longlegs or a ladybug. If a girl gets the front of her dress wet while doing her laundry, she will marry a drunkard.

It was Oscar Wilde who observed, "The books that the world calls immoral are books that show the world its own shame."

Early Memorial Day exercises underscored the North's victory in the Civil War, but as new wars were fought, it became an occasion for honoring all Americans who died for their country.

On this day in history:

In 1846, the Mexican garrison at Monterrey surrendered to the U.S. Navy.

In 1865, four persons named as accomplices in the assassination of President Abraham Lincoln were hanged.

In 1898, President William McKinley authorized the annexation of Hawaii.

In 1960, riots swept the Congo and natives murdered white persons on sight.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Don't Rely On Golfish To Play Your Hand Properly In Game

Long and patient observation has taught me that there is a difference between goldfish and bridge players. (Not all bridge players, just some of them.)

In the interest of science, I offer my evidence — in the form of a bridge hand.

Opening lead — ♡ K

West opens the king of hearts, and everybody follows suit. Nothing in that trick to frighten a fish fancier. It's the next trick that will make headlines in the leading piscatorial periodicals.

SPADE QUEEN

West leads the queen of spades, and here is where the goldfish gobbles himself to death. If a goldfish happens to be playing the South hand, he cannot resist gobbling up that queen of spades.

That trick is the end of South. There are several ways for him to continue to play, but none of them will bring him happiness.

For example, suppose South takes two rounds of trumps and starts on the diamonds. He discards a heart on the third diamond, but West ruffs and takes two more heart tricks, now that dummy is out of trumps. West gets a trump and three hearts in all.

JUST AS BAD

It's just as bad for South if he takes the king of spades and leads a heart right back. West takes the trick and leads another trump.

South is no better off if he takes the first spade and starts the diamonds at once. West ruffs the third diamond and leads a club.

In short, all continuations lead to one poor goldfish floating on the top of the water.

SECOND TRICK

A bridge player doesn't gobble up that queen of spades at the second trick. He sees that he must surely lose one trump trick no matter how the trumps are divided. He is safe if he loses that trick immediately.

Now it is West who cannot find happiness. If West leads another trump, South can draw trumps and run the diamonds safely. If West, instead, leads hearts, dummy can ruff the third heart.

Life is much easier for the bridge player than for the poor fish.

QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠ A K 9 8 6 5
♦ K 3
♣ 9

Answer: Bid one spade.

You have only 10 points in high cards, but should count 3 points for your distribution. You open this optional 13-point hand because you have good high-card structure and a fine major suit.

Peat In Pot

NEW YORK (UPI)—Clay-potted house plants filled mostly with peat moss instead of solid soil will make them lighter and less apt to fall from walls, the Potted Plant Information Center here advises.

REMEMBER
Grandma's house where you looked down on the orchard and then past to other homes nestled in greenery? This lot is like that — but the house is delinitely grandson's! Modern beamed ceiling throughout and paneled walls give a warm glow to the w/w carpeting and huge, used brick fireplace. The kitchen is in sunny yellow with country wall paper — and you can almost smell the fresh bread baking. And where grandma's house had a big attic, the bonus here is 2 large rooms downstairs with another fireplace. If your heart is sentimental, your mind practical and your pocketbook slim — this is the home for you at only $31,750. Give us a ring today to see it.

PURPOSE: The Bonds of Series B are authorized for the purpose of providing funds for the acquisition and construction of improvements or extensions of the existing off-street parking facilities of Parking District No. 1 of the City.

SECURITY: The bonds are payable exclusively from, and are secured by a pledge of, the gross revenues of the off-street parking facilities constituting the Project of the District, the gross revenues of on-street parking meters within the District and the proceeds of an ad valorem assessment upon all taxable real property in Parking District No. 1 of the City. Such an assessment, at a rate not exceeding 75¢ per $100 of assessed valuation, must be levied in any year in which pledged parking revenues are insufficient to pay the principal of and interest on the bonds. Bidders are referred to the Resolution and to the official statement for further particulars. A Reserve Fund is required to be maintained in an amount equal to the maximum annual debt service on all bonds outstanding.

PAYING AGENTS: The City has appointed The Chase Manhattan Bank, Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Company of Chicago and Bank of America National Trust and Savings Association as paying agents for the payment of principal and interest of the bonds in New York, New York, Chicago, Illinois and San Francisco, California, respectively.

TAX EXEMPT STATUS: In the event that prior to the delivery of the Bonds of Series B the income received by private holders from bonds of the same type and character shall be declared to be taxable under any federal income tax laws, either by the terms of such laws or by ruling of a federal income tax authority or official which is followed by the Internal Revenue Service, or by decision of any federal court, the successful bidder may, at his option, prior to the tender of said bonds by the City, be relieved of his obligation under the contract to purchase the bonds, and in such case the deposit accompanying his bid will be returned.

LEGAL OPINION: The legal opinions of Messrs. Orrick, Dahlquist, Herrington & Sutcliffe, of San Francisco, California, and of Messrs. Sturgis, Den-Dulk, Douglass & Anderson, of Oakland, California, approving the validity of the Bonds of Series B, will be furnished to the successful bidder without charge.

TERMS OF SALE

Highest Bid: The Bonds of Series B will be awarded to the highest responsible bidder, considering the interest rate or rates specified and the premium offered, if any. The highest bid will be determined by deducting the amount of the premium bid (if any) from the total amount of interest which the City would be required to pay from the date of the Bonds of Series B to their respective maturity dates at the coupon rate or rates specified in the bid, and the award will be made on the basis of the lowest net interest cost to the City. The purchaser must pay accrued interest, computed on a 360-day year basis, from the date of the Bonds of Series B to the date of delivery. The cost of printing the Bonds of Series B will be borne by the City.

Right of Rejection: The City reserves the right, in its discretion, to reject any and all bids and to waive any irregularity or informality in any bid.

Prompt Award: The City Council will take action awarding the Bonds of Series B or rejecting all bids not later than 24 hours after the expiration of the time herein prescribed for the receipt of proposals, unless such time of award is waived by the successful bidder. Notice of the award will be given promptly to the successful bidder.

Delivery: Delivery of the Bonds of Series B will be made to the successful bidder at the San Francisco Main Office of Bank of America N. T. & S. A., in San Francisco, California, as soon as the bonds can be prepared, which it is estimated will be within 30 days from the date of sale.

Right of Cancellation: The successful bidder shall have the right, at his option, to cancel the contract of purchase if the City shall fail to execute the Bonds of Series B and tender the same for delivery within 60 days from the date of sale thereof, and in such event the successful bidder shall be entitled to the return of the deposit accompanying his bid.

Form of Bid: All bids must be for not less than all of the bonds hereby offered for sale, and for not less than the par value thereof and accrued interest to date of delivery. Each bid, together with bidder's check, must be enclosed in a sealed envelope addressed to the City Council of the City of San Rafael and endorsed "Proposal for Bonds of Parking District No. 1 of the City of San Rafael, Series B."

Bid Check: With each bid must be submitted a certified check or cashier's check for $5,000, drawn on a bank or trust company transacting business in the State of California, payable to the order of the City to secure the City from any loss resulting from the failure of the bidder to comply with the terms of his bid. In addition, bidders are requested, but not required, to supply an estimate of the total net interest cost to the City on the basis of their respective bids, which shall be considered as informative only and not binding on either the bidder or the City. Checks of the unsuccessful bidders will be returned by the City by mail promptly after the date of sale above specified. No interest will be paid upon the deposit made by any bidder.

No Litigation: There is no litigation pending concerning the validity of the bonds, the corporate existence of the City or the title of the officers thereof to their respective offices, and the City will furnish to the successful bidder a no-litigation certificate certifying to the foregoing as of and at the time of the delivery of the Bonds of Series B.

Official Statement: The City has prepared an official statement, a copy of which will be furnished upon request to the undersigned or to Stone & Youngberg, financing consultants to the City, at 1314 Russ Building, San Francisco, California.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Doctors Testing Drug That May Safely Reduce Women's Face Hair

VAN DELLEN

A pill that eliminates unwanted hair on the face would be welcomed by many women. Metranidazone is under investigation as the potential answer to this problem. This drug is an accepted remedy for infections caused by trichomonas vaginalis and some users have noted less hair on the face as an extra dividend.

ORE RECENTLY Dr. Arthur P. Holstein of Northville, Mich., tried the compound on 15 women who were living in a mental institute. Eleven of those had a tufted distribution of facial hair and there was no change in this group. The other four had a masculine type distribution of facial hair on the upper lip, cheeks, chin, and front of the neck.

This hair began to disappear during the second week of treatment and the effect continued until the remedy was stopped. Dr. Holstein estimated that the total loss of hair amounted to 40 per cent in two of these women and 25 per cent in the other two.

BUT THIS WAS not all. These patients were gratified with the results and perked up considerably. Building up the ego is an important step in the treatment of any mental patient. Time will tell whether metranidazone helps enough persons to warrant a recommendation.

Many women develop superfluous hair on the faces, especially about the chin. It may occur at any age but it more likely to take place near the menopause. Women are disturbed by these short bristles and frequently magnify their importance. They think everyone is staring at them. This is mentioned because some women go to the extremes to have them removed.

REMOVAL BY electrolysis is the permanent method. Cutting or shaving is the easiest but the results are temporary. Many women pluck the hairs with tweezers or wax. Bleaching also helps. A depilatory removes the hair but may cause dermatitis on the sensitive skin of the face.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if a stamped, self-addressesd envelope accompanies request.)

BURNING TONGUE

I. O. R. writes: So long as I take two vitamin B complex tablets a day, my tongue is O.K. But if I cut down or forget the pills, it starts burning again. I'm 67 and eat a balanced diet.

REPLY

Keep up the vitamin B complex. Meanwhile, have your blood tested for anemia. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on burning tongue.

BURNED SCALP

D. G. writes: Will hair grow on the head of a child whose scalp was burned?

REPLY

Not if the burn was deep enough to destroy the hair follicles. Skin grafting or a wig may solve this problem.

Today's Health Hint — Children should have periodic eye examinations.

Eliminating Segregation Is Negro Aim

"Negroes are not concerned with integrating, but they are darned concerned with eliminating segregation," Dr. Daniel E. Collins of Mill Valley told the San Rafael Rotary Club yesterday.

Collins, a dentist practicing in San Francisco and a member of the State Board of Education, told the Rotarians at Dominic's Harbor Restaurant that they, too, "are involved in the revolution."

"Negro people have been involved in every aspect of American history," he said, "but your textbooks will not tell you that. They have systematically eliminated the Negro."

"They are geared to what people will accept in Mississippi and Florida, and then sold to you."

Dr. Collins centered his talk on housing initiative, proposition 14 on the Nov. 3 ballot, which would outlaw state "fair housing" legislation.

"If the citizens of California decide to repeal the Rumford Act," he declared, "this will be a tremendous setback in the philosophy you hold. . . .

"Not only California, but the entire United States will suffer this setback in the eyes of the world."

Collins somewhat startled his audience when he reported that genealogy studies at University of Wisconsin show that one from five United States residents may have Negro ancestry.

"But don't be frightened," he quickly added. "It simply means that Uncle Mose was back in your ancestry somewhere."

As a slave, Collins continued, the Negro was encouraged to have children illegitimately. "Do you wonder why he has out of wedlock children now—after 350 years of training?" he asked.

The doctrine of "separate but equal" facilities in the South has simply failed to work, he said: "I went through 12 years in a southern Negro school. We had not one new desk, always second hand from white schools."

Predicting a "long, hot summer" for civil rights workers in southern states, dentist Collins concluded somewhat wryly:

"Isn't it something that in the 20th century people get murdered when they try to register to vote?

"I congratulate you on your high level of civilization, but the minute you begin to hoard it, you also begin to lose it."

Seventh and eighth graders wishing to go along must obtain parental approval and apply at the center by Thursday, according to club president Bonnie Crozier. Youngsters are asked to take their own lunches and to wear sport clothes for the outing.

Sheep Dog Piles Points

Shaggybar Bottomsup, an Old English sheep dog owned by Stan Goldberg of 815 Spring Street, Sausalito, scored enough points in the Golden Gate Kennel Club's summer show Sunday at Brooks Hall, San Francisco, to complete his championship. He then placed first in the working group of about 10 different breeds and qualified with five other dogs for best-in-show judging in the 1,000-dog competition.

What to do until an emergency happens

Emergencies have practically no sense of fair play. And almost always pick the worst possible time to happen.

People seem to prefer the day your insurance lapses to trip on your sidewalk, for example.

And the car usually waits until your bank account registers empty before demanding expensive repairs.

There's no fighting it. But you can be ready. By tucking away some reserve funds in Savings Bonds.

Bonds, themselves, are emergency proof. You can't lose the money you invest in them, even if fire, flood, robbers or plain carelessness causes you to lose the Bonds.

And when something expensive happens, you can just take them in to any bank and get yourself solvent again.

In the meantime, Uncle Sam uses your Bond dollars to handle other urgent matters, like taking care of your freedom.

Buy Bonds where you bank or on the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. Get yourself really prepared and you might even discourage a few emergencies from ever happening.

Quick facts about Series E Savings Bonds

- You get back $4 for every $3 at maturity (7¼ years)
- You can get your money when you need it
- Your Bonds are replaced free if lost, destroyed or stolen
- You pay no state or local tax and can defer payment of federal tax until the Bonds are cashed

22 New TB Cases Told In County

Twenty-two new cases of tuberculosis have been reported to the Marin County Health Department during the first half of this year, the Marin Tuberculosis and Health Assn. reported today. The year's total for 1963 was 27.

Nine males and 13 females make the six-month case total, including four children ages 7, 10, 12 and 16. Victims' age span extends through 84, with representation in each decade and concentration of nine in the 40-50 bracket. One patient has glandular tuberculosis, the others lung infections.

Mill Valley and Marin City have four new cases each; Novato and Kentfield, each three cases; San Anselmo, San Rafael and Fairfax, two; Tiburon and Muir Beach, one.

Tuberculosis has been increasing in Marin since 1960, and the increase parallels a state-wide rise, according to Dr. Joseph J. Alderson, president of the Marin TB association.

"In 1962, new active cases totaling 5,032 were reported in California. And from past experience we know that for each case that is reported there are four additional unreported and undetected cases which continue to infect others," Dr. Alderson said.

Commenting on the fact TB patients generally have no idea where they contracted the disease, Alderson declared: "Infection occurs in one way—exposure to a person with active disease. Finding this undetected disease is medically possible, provided the citizens of the community take advantage of the available tuberculin tests and chest x-rays."

'Travelling' Tortoise Startles Park Ranger

A foot-long tortoise, usually found in the desert of southwestern United States, somewhat surprised James Steward, Samuel P. Taylor state park ranger, Sunday as he was driving the park's upper campground road.

The out-of-town traveler, however, had traveled only a few hundred feet. He belonged to children of Dr. C. W. Campbell of San Francisco, and had escaped from his pen.

Temporary Site Approved For Retarded School

A new school for mentally retarded youngsters will be allowed to operate for two years at 1854 Indian Valley Road in Novato, the Marin County Planning Commission decided yesterday.

Commissioners granted a two-year use permit for the special school over the objection of Harold Bloom, a neighboring rancher who said he feared contamination from septic tanks because the soil is not conductive to good drainage.

County school officials, headed by Supt Virgil S. Hollis, assured commissioners that this will be a temporary school to give agricultural and pre-vocational training to trainable mentally retarded. Dr. Hollis said he will bend every effort to get out of the site within two years.

Red Paper Lauds Bobby For 'Building Bridges'

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Robert F. Kennedy's bid for Polish initiative to improve U.S.-Soviet relations won approval Sunday from the Polish Communist party newspapers.

Trybunaluda hailed Kennedy's "emphasis on building bridges between nations," but scolded the American attorney general for "notoriously being late" for appointments with Polish leaders and for speaking to crowds from the roofs of cars.

Court Ruling May Mean New Trials

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The California Supreme Court yesterday reversed the death sentence of a convicted murderer whose penalty previously had been upheld, and raised the possibility of reversals in 17 other death row cases.

Yesterday's action ordered a new trial on the penalty issue in the case of Lawrence Akin Jackson, 37, a construction worker.

Jackson obtained a writ of habeas corpus because of the court's Morse Doctrine spelled out last Jan. 7 which clarified jury instructions.

Jackson, whose conviction had been upheld nine months before, successfully maintained that the court should make the Morse Doctrine retroactive to his case.

There are 17 other men on death row whose convictions have been affirmed and who possibly might seek new penalty trials because of the decision.

In the Jackson case, the state attorney argued that the Morse ruling should not be made retroactive.

But the Supreme Court said it could not accept "the paradox" that Jackson must suffer death "in a grim sequence of judicial error" while the sentences of others were set aside.

The majority opinion, written by Justice Mathew O. Tobriner, said the court could not "ruthlessly refuse" to grant Jackson a new penalty trial "upon the ground that the court discovered the error too late."

The court voted 5-2, and in a dissenting opinion, Justice Marshall F. McComb said he did not think the error made any difference in the outcome of the Jackson case.

In the Morse case, the court said it was prejudicial error for the jury in a capital case to be told it could speculate on whether the defendant might be paroled or have his sentence commuted, if given a life term.

Including Jackson, 12 death row inmates now have been granted new trials because of the Morse Doctrine. Jackson was found guilty in the rape-murder of Mrs. Doris Keyes, 52, of Hollywood, whose body was found Sept. 16, 1961 in a mountain valley.
